

Massive Planning Precedes President Nixon's Trip to Europe

WASHINGTON (AP) — When President Nixon goes abroad Sunday he will follow a route prepared by some 70 advance men and thousands of foreign policemen whose chief worry will be student demonstrators and—as a Scotland Yard official put it—"the odd man out."

Despite massive security precautions, timing and logistics will play a major role in Nixon's initial and possibly crucial contacts with leaders in Great Britain, France, West Germany, Belgium and Italy.

Detailed trip planning actually began Feb. 8 when the 70 advance men left Washington for Europe aboard Air Force One, the presidential jet. Led by White House counsel John D. Erlichman, the contingent included representatives of the State Department, National Security Council, White House Communications Agency and the Secret Service.

At the controls was the new presidential pilot, Lt. Col. Ralph D. Albertazzie. His job was to follow the same route Nixon will follow, practicing landings and takeoffs at each airport along the way.

Erlichman's assignment was to make certain Nixon will see the people he wants to see—including some private citizens—and such selected landmarks as the stark Berlin Wall. Erlichman acted as the President's personal schedule maker.

Robert Hodak of the National Security Council staff made the advance trip to lay the groundwork for the serious talks Nixon will have with allied leaders.

The State Department official, John Thomas, went along to iron out administrative details, such as waiver of customs inspections as the chief executive and his party move from country to country.

Ray Zook of the White House Transportation Office was responsible for finding hotel space, buses and autos for the presidential group. For the Bonn stop alone, Zook lined up rooms in 18 hotels.

The mission of Timothy G. Elbourne Jr., White House press assistant who was to smooth the path for some 200 reporters, photographers and television technicians who will be members of Nixon's traveling party.

One of his smaller problems: To persuade Buckingham Palace to admit six American photographers to record Nixon's meeting with Queen Elizabeth II. The British had thought two would be sufficient.

At each city along the advance route, communications specialists and Secret Service agents peeled off to continue detailed planning. They will remain at their temporary posts until after Nixon's return.

Among the problems facing the Secret Service advance men in preparing for threatened student demonstrations in London and West Berlin, but thousands of police and troops will be on duty in Bonn, Paris, and Rome, too.

Besides student demonstrators, American and European security men also are concerned about individual fanatics. Scotland Yard has sent a list of all potential troublemakers, including continental agitators, to immigration officials.

"Even if the protests peter out into lunatic fringe things, there is still the odd man out who feels a grudge or imagines he is a deliverer. Anyone can find a gun," said one Scotland Yard man.

The communications men, responsible for providing dependable, spy-proof means of keeping in constant touch with Washington, have been installing new equipment where necessary.

Air Force One will be accompanied by at least four other big jets. There will be an almost-identical "backup" plane, ready to speed him on his way should AFI develop mechanical problems.

There will be an Air Force Starliner transport to carry the new bubble-top, bullet-proof limousine and the specially built Secret Service "followup" cars. There also will be two commercial airliners that have been chartered to carry the press.

If past practice prevails, and no one will say a word about it, Nixon's plane also will be followed by a big Air Force jet equipped as a flying communications center.

Jerusalem is Shaken By Terrorist Blast

JERUSALEM (AP) — A powerful explosion ripped through Jerusalem's biggest supermarket today, killing two young Jewish students and wounding nine other persons. A leading government official blamed the attack on Arab governments.

A few hours after the blast, Gideon Rafael, director-general of Israel's Foreign Ministry declared:

"The terror organizations are nothing but irregular forces of Egypt, Jordan, Lebanon and Iraq and all the countries which allow them to operate from their territory."

The supermarket blast killed two university students and wounded an Australian major and eight other persons. Three of the women victims were reported in serious condition.

Police Minister Eliahu Sasson said the "vile attack" was obviously linked to the Arab guerrilla attack Tuesday on an Israeli airliner in Zurich, Switzerland.

"Somebody standing next to me was virtually blown to bits," said Yosef Polshuk, who worked behind the meat counter. He said the explosion blew him over.

In the supermarket building, across the street from the King David Hotel, was broken glass and groceries were splattered all over the walls and floors. All the windows were blown out.

Another package of about two and a half pounds of explosives was found in a candy box on the wine counter, police said. It was timed to go off an hour after the first explosion.

An Arab employee of the supermarket was held for questioning.

Police said a smaller bomb was discovered near the British Consulate half a mile away. It was detonated in a field.

Three months ago 12 persons were killed and 55 injured in a pre-Sabbath blast. On that Friday Arab guerrillas detonated a car packed with explosives in Jerusalem's largest market square. It, too, was jammed with shoppers.

As they did then, Israeli police set up roadblocks today between the Jewish and Arab quarters of Jerusalem to prevent retaliatory attacks on the Arabs. Border police in armored cars patrolled the twisting, narrow streets of the Arab quarter.

There was a steady exodus of Arabs who work in west Jerusalem for the Israelis. They hurried back to the safety of their homes.

Meanwhile, Baghdad Radio announced that Iraq had executed the noncommissioned army officer who headed the Israeli spy ring from which seven members were executed Thursday.

The eighth man put to death previously had been reported still at large. Baghdad Radio did not say when he was tried, sentenced or executed, but it identified him as Najat Kazem Khourshid.

The Iraqi government said the seven men executed Thursday were Moslems, but eyewitnesses

Utilities Taxation Opposed

Opposition to Senate Bill 100, which would impose a new tax on all utilities, was the primary topic of a press conference called by William Hall, industrial development director, Friday morning.

According to Hall, passage of the bill would "add prohibitive costs and would hinder industrial growth throughout the state."

The most important reason, Hall said, for his opposition to the bill was that it would require "low or fixed income people to pay a higher proportionate tax on their gross utility bill. In many instances," he said, "these people have no control over the amount of gas, water, or electricity used."

Hall said the bill, as presented to the House Ways and Means Committee, would affect all utilities, from gas and water through cable television, regardless of ownership.

According to Hall, the bill, as presented, would create a 5 percent tax, effective July 1, 1969, on gross tax receipts of all utilities. The tax would go up to 10 percent, he said, effective July 1, 1970, if the bill is passed.

Hall appeared before a Senate committee studying the bill Feb. 12.

In a prepared statement, Hall told committee members he was opposed to the bill because it would "not only eliminate our possibility of gaining new industry, it would have a tremendous effect on any expansion of industry already existent, and more especially those industries that have a major portion of their operating expenses coming from fuel and power sources."

"Secondly, I am opposed to it not only because industry development in the state of Missouri means additional growth of our economy, but because it would impose an unfair tax schedule on the individuals in the state who now live on a fixed or retired income..."

Among the utilities specifically named by Hall were gas, electricity, water, sewers, telephone, cable television and, in Sedalia's case, possibly even the garbage pickup service provided by the city.

The bill originated, Hall indicated, in an apparent effort to procure additional revenue for public schools in the state.

Given Grant For Airport At Lincoln

LINCOLN — A grant of $10,000 from Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has been received here to begin construction of a municipal airport.

The check, which is part of the state matching airport grant program, was presented to Mayor Truman Eken in ceremonies at the Capitol in Jefferson City. Lincoln is eligible to receive an additional $15,000 at a later date for improvements to the airport.

Included in the group witnessing the presentation were: Sen. James A. Noland of the 33rd District; Rep. Guss Salley, 116th District; Lincoln City Clerk David Hare; Chamber of Commerce President Doug McCain; Alderman Karl Kroenke, Ray F. McCubbin, Clarence Stone and Leo Hare; and Bob Rigby and Clarence Frisch, members of the Lincoln Airport Board.

Lincoln is one of the state's smallest communities to receive a grant for the construction of an airport.

Last October, Lincoln received the first prize of $700, for communities under 500 population, for their civic improvements in 1968, at the Fifth Annual Missouri Community Betterment Awards Banquet held in Jefferson City. The city is also runner-up for the top award in its division in the National Clean-up Fix-up contest.

Lincoln celebrates its Centennial July 3-5.

Campus Violence Mounts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Police and 2,000 demonstrators clashed in a cloud of tear gas on the University of California Berkeley campus in the worst outbreak of violence thus far in the current national epidemic of student unrest.

When the battle was over Thursday, 26 students and 13 officers were injured and police had arrested 14 youths and a girl. The clash began when police tried to disperse demonstrators who harassed a meeting of university regents.

In Chicago about 100 Negro student rebels invaded the president's office at Roosevelt University shouting demands for a black studies program. They ripped out telephones, sprayed firehoses and set off fire alarms. Warrants charging criminal trespassing were later issued for two of the students.

At Ohio's Oberlin College several hundred students blocked Marine Corps recruiters whom the administration then ordered off campus. The militants

Industrial Structure Is Sought

William H. Hall, industrial development director, reported today he had received notification "that an industrial prospect is interested in the possibility of Sedalia as a plant location" and that a building is needed for the firm.

Hall said he did not know the name of the company, only that it would establish a light manufacturing and assembly operation here. The firm, he said, needs an existing building with 15,000 to 20,000 square feet of floor space.

Specifications outlined to him, Hall said, indicate the building would have to be a single story structure with 10 to 12-foot ceilings. It should be located in an area with easy access to major north-south and east-west highways, he said.

Hall indicated the firm, if it decides to locate here, would employ about 100 people.

The announcement was made, Hall said, primarily because his files contained no information on the type of building required.

"I am seeking the assistance of anyone who might know of, or have, such a building available in the community."

Calls may be directed to the Industrial Development Department, 827-0884.

Resignation Of MU Dean Called For

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—The Maneater, student publication at the University of Missouri, called today for the immediate resignation of dean of students Jack Matthews.

In an editorial, the publication cited recent actions of Matthews as inconsistent with the ideals of the university president and board of curators.

It claims Matthews is unable to converse in student language and unable to give students the key to communicate with him.

The editorial said there is no room for academic disruption at the university.

Demands at CMSC By Negro Students

WARRENSBURG, Mo. (AP)

— Leaders of black students at Central Missouri State College demanded a meeting with administrators today after about 300 persons were cleared from the Student Union building.

Police action Thursday night broke up a forbidden appearance by members of the Black Panther chapter in Kansas City.

Several windows were broken by rocks or bricks. No injuries were reported and no arrests were made.

Campus and city police cleared the union building as Missouri Highway patrolmen converged from west and central Missouri.

"The question is whether we have the right to invite speakers here," said Kenneth King, 21, student leader of the Association of Black Collegians at Central Missouri.

He asserted the college administration employed repressive reaction.

College officials refused to comment.

At one point, students demanded a meeting this morning with Dr. Tom Edmunds, dean of student personnel services, "in safety's interest."

Edmunds replied he had the support of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes and did not wish to be told who to meet or when.

King said he asked Edmunds on Monday for permission for the Black Panthers to discuss their aims with Warrensburg students. On Tuesday, King said, Edmunds prohibited the meeting. King said it was decided to hold the meeting and the Black Panthers were advised it would not be sanctioned by the college.

Believe Soviets Planning An Orbital Bomb System

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Department officials say they think the Soviet Union has decided to deploy a system of bombs which could be rocketed into space and fired before completing their first orbit.

They indicate that accumulating evidence, presumably gathered from Soviet tests monitored by the United States, points toward the Kremlin's intention to mount the program, called a Fractional Orbital Bombardment System.

This conclusion comes only a month after Clark M. Clifford, in his final report as secretary of defense, said the United States was uncertain about Soviet use of the FOBS.

Pentagon sources said, however, the Clifford statement reflected assessments made in the last months of 1968.

An FOBS would be boosted into a low orbit, generally about 100 miles above Earth and would be fired by remote control at ground targets before completing its first circuit.

The low altitude would enable the orbital bomb to avoid detection by U.S. early warning radar.

Officials refuse to discuss intelligence, but it is known that the Russians have conducted at least 13 FOBS tests. The first seven reported flopped, but the next six were said to have worked.

The Soviet Union's experiments with an orbital bomb were disclosed by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara Nov. 3, 1967.

He downrated it, saying it would be too inaccurate for a satisfactory attack on U.S. intercontinental missiles protected in underground silos. But he did say the Russians might consider using it for surprise attack against such "soft land targets" as bomber bases.

In spite of the surprise potential of an orbital bomb, the United States has been developing radar that can "see" over the horizon, giving the alarm shortly after such a warhead is launched.

Another possible defense could come from the Sentinel missile defense system, according to testimony Thursday from Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird.

He told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that among the options being studied in a review of the now suspended Sentinel program are means to protect against an orbital bomb attack.

One of Laird's statements that attracted considerable attention was his disclosure that the Soviet Union is moving ahead with a "sophisticated new ABM system."

Asked for details the Pentagon would say only that "we have evidence of continuing Soviet activity toward improved sophistication in the antiballistic field."

Defense Witness

Mrs. Marina Oswald Porter arrives Friday at the courthouse in New Orleans where the conspiracy trial of Clay Shaw is in progress. Mrs. Porter, accompanied by her husband, Kenneth, is the former wife of Lee Harvey Oswald. She testified for the defense, following Judge Edward Hagerty's ruling that the trial should continue. (UPI)

Widow of Oswald Denies Husband Was a 'Beatnik'

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Lee Harvey Oswald's widow, summoned today as a defense witness at Clay Shaw's conspiracy trial, contradicted prosecution testimony that her late husband was a bearded beatnik who shared an apartment with an eccentric homosexual.

Mrs. Marina Oswald Porter, a slender Russian-born blonde who has remarried and lives in Richardson, Tex., was called as the first witness for the defense after the judge threw out a motion by Shaw's attorneys for a directed verdict of innocent.

Mrs. Porter said the only night Oswald spent away from home when they lived in New Orleans was one night in jail.

Shaw, 55, a retired New Orleans businessman, is charged with conspiring with Oswald, David W. Ferrie and others to assassinate President John F. Kennedy.

The key state witness, Perry Raymond Russo, testified that he knew Oswald as Leon Oswald who shared an apartment with Ferrie, described as an eccentric homosexual by several witnesses. Russo said he overheard the plotting during a party at Ferrie's apartment in September 1963.

"Do you know what a beatnik or a hippie looks like?" asked defense attorney F. Irvin Dymond.

"Yes," replied Mrs. Porter. "Did you ever see Lee Harvey Oswald looking like a beatnik?"

"No, sir."

Mrs. Porter testified she had never heard Oswald mention a Clay Shaw or a "Clem Bertrand," the alias that Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison contends Shaw used during the plotting. Russo said Shaw was introduced to him at the Ferrie apartment as Clem Bertrand.

She also testified that she never heard Oswald mention either Ferrie or Russo.

The defense began its case after Judge Edward A. Hagerty Jr. of Criminal District Court denied a motion that he direct the jury to return a verdict of innocent.

Dymond moved for the direct-

Report New Jersey Could Be Laid Up

SAIGON (AP) — Military sources said today the world's only active battleship—the USS New Jersey—will depart in March after a six-month tour off the coasts of North and South Vietnam and may not return to the war.

The sources said her departure does not represent a de-escalation of the allied war effort.

But after six months in Long Beach, Calif., for repairs, maintenance and retraining of her crew, the 56,000-ton battleship may not be needed in Vietnam, depending on the progress of the Paris peace talks, the sources said.

The New Jersey was brought out of mothballs in 1967 as a $50 million experiment to test the effectiveness of her 16-inch guns against targets in North Vietnam. The United States was then escalating its bombardment of the North, and the Navy said the 23-mile range of the New Jersey's guns would cover many of the targets then being hit by warplanes. Use of the battleship could reduce American jet plane losses then running about one a day, the Navy explained.

By the time the New Jersey arrived in Vietnam last Sept. 30, President Johnson had limited air and surface bombardment of North Vietnam to the country's narrow southern panhandle. The Pentagon said the battleship's big guns were still needed to hit well entrenched North Vietnamese artillery which was harassing the U.S. and South Vietnamese posts below the demilitarized zone.

A month later Johnson halted all attacks on the North, and the enemy artillery attacks from above the DMZ stopped. Since then the battleship has made occasional attacks on North Vietnamese bunkers and anti-aircraft guns in the DMZ which attacked U.S. reconnaissance planes. She also has bombarded shore targets in South Vietnam in support of American or South Vietnamese ground troops.

Witnesses To Assemble In Liberty

Harold G. Matson, presiding minister of the Sedalia Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, announced today arrangements for a three-day assembly of the Witnesses in the Liberty, Mo., High School had been completed. Assembly dates are Feb. 28, March 1-2. The Sedalia congregation will attend, and normal sessions at the local Kingdom Hall will be cancelled for those assembly dates, Matson said.

According to Matson the convention will serve many congregations of the Witnesses from Kansas City, Independence, Sedalia and other western Missouri areas.

Theme for the three-day meet is "Make Wise Use of the Remaining Time."

"These assemblies," Matson said, "are held approximately twice a year. At these meetings the delegates receive Bible instruction through the medium of talks and practical stage demonstrations." A baptism for new ministers is scheduled.

Church Project Is Aimed At Improving Marriages

CALGARY (AP) — The church, Dr. Paul Popenoe told a young Canadian minister during lunch nine years ago, should move into the field of "lonely hearts clubs," because it has the confidence of society in matters of marriage and the family.

Rev. W. Edgar Mullen took the message from the director of the American Institute of Family Relations in Los Angeles and fashioned it into a revolutionary church project scientifically designed to give men and women a better chance for happy marriage.

The Pastoral Institute, an ecumenical ministry of the churches of Calgary with the Rev. Dr. Mullen as its director, has blended research in the social sciences, data processing, experience and the pastoral resources of the church into a "mate selection" service.

Open to members of all faiths, the Personal Acquaintance Service has one objective in mind—sound marriage.

"This is not just a mating service," Dr. Mullen says. "It is just one area of family life education and marriage counselling the institute is involved in."

"We know the problem at firsthand. We have worked for years with the widowed, divorced and single people. With the participation of the clergy and the congregations, men and women can have a better than average chance for happy marriage, with responsible freedom of choice, in spite of the suspicions and misconceptions that surround such unorthodox methods."

The institute decided on a pastoral-scientific approach to its selection service because "the rate of divorce in Canada indicates that people are not realistic in the personal and social criteria by which they choose their mates."

Persons applying for membership in the Personal Acquaintance Service have to complete a questionnaire designed to assess temperament, sociability, conformity to social standards and attitudes toward sex, money and religion.

The cultural background of members will be assessed according to personal tastes and interests as well as occupation, education, social, economic status, racial and religious origins.

Sound marriage rather than exciting adventure will be the emphasis, Dr. Mullen says.

Service, Dr. Mullen says, will be by correspondence because "most people are individualistic, proud and sensitive enough to prefer the dignity of anonymity, as well as freedom from a welfare atmosphere, and that of volunteer do-gooders and church workers."

The correspondence service, Dr. Mullen says, will recruit from the entire continent. In the first few weeks, 800 applications flowed into the Pastoral Institute office in downtown Calgary.

Knob Noster Pastor Resigns Church Post

KNOB NOSTER — The Rev. John Thompson announced his resignation as pastor of the First Christian Church in Knob Noster, effective April 15, at a recent meeting of the church board.

The Rev. Thompson has accepted the pastorate of the Grant City Christian Church and will begin his duties there April 20. The church has a membership of about 300. Rev. Thompson became pastor of the Knob Noster church a year and a half ago. Prior to that he was pastor of the Bucklin Christian Church for four years. He received his AB from Central Methodist College at Fayette in May 1962, and his BD from the Missouri School of Religion in Columbia in June 1967. His ordination was held June 19, 1966, at the Nevada Christian Church.

The Rev. and Mrs. Thompson and their two daughters, Leilana, 4, and Lenesa, 1½, will move to Grant City in April.

Code Gaps Pointed Up By Pueblo

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — The Navy says its inquiry into the behavior of USS Pueblo crewmen in North Korean captivity provides a good test for evaluating the U.S. Code of Conduct for prisoners.

However, Pueblo crewmen can not be punished under the code directly, says Capt. William Newsome, Navy counsel, and questioning them about the code is "simply for the sake of evaluating" it.

"Perhaps it is inartfully written and in need of revision," Newsome told newsmen Thursday, referring to an era of cold war when men are not taken prisoner of war but are "illegally detained."

The code of conduct, promulgated by then President Eisenhower after the Korean War, says that U.S. prisoners of war are bound to give only name, rank, service number and date of birth.

Pueblo officers and crewmen have told a Navy court of inquiry into the ship's seizure and their 11-month imprisonment that they signed false confessions after torture, saying they intruded into North Korean waters and were spying. The court was in recess today for Washington's birthday.

How the code of conduct is affected by the Pueblo case was shown Thursday in testimony from Radioman 2.C. Lee Roy Hayes, who said he prayed an atomic bomb would be dropped on North Korea during his imprisonment because "I'd rather be killed by my own people."

"What was the main reason for deviating from the code of conduct?" asked the counsel.

"I couldn't hold out forever," said Hayes.

Willfully giving the enemy material information could be aiding them under the military code, Newsome said.

Three Die In Shooting In Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — A shoot-out between police and a man barricaded in a northwest Washington home left three civilians dead, three policemen wounded by shotgun blasts, and three other officers injured today.

Police said the man, who opened fire on two officers as they responded to an emergency call, shot himself to death after tear gas shells set fire to the three-story home in a middle-class neighborhood.

Two women also were found dead in the house, one of them believed by neighbors to be a maid.

The three policemen were believed to be by neighbors to be a maid.

The three policemen were reported to be seriously hurt. Sgt. Robert Householder, 32, and Officer Roland Bennett 28, were shot in the face as they arrived to investigate reports of shots being fired in the neighborhood.

Capt. John Reynolds, 48, next on the scene, also was hit in the face with a shotgun blast as he attempted to spot the gunman from an adjoining house.

In addition, Capt. Charles Monroe was badly injured when he jumped from the burning building following the shooting. The house caught fire after police fired tear gas grenades inside.

Two other officers were being treated for either smoke inhalation or the effects of tear gas.

The morning siege of the home began about 8:30 when a neighbor reported hearing shots next door.

Householder and Bennett were struck by a shotgun blast as they emerged from their car. Deputy Police Chief J. V. Wilson reconstructed the events this way:

A Negro man in his thirties shot a woman in the house.

After the police arrived he shot another woman resident who staggered out of a back door and collapsed dead on the sidewalk.

By this time, scores of police reinforcements arrived.

A gunbattle began, the man firing from an upstairs window and police trading him with pistol shots.

About two hours after the siege began, police stormed the home and found the suspected gunman dead in a rear bathroom, shot through the head.

Wilson said the man is believed to have turned his gun on himself.

Identities of the three victims could not immediately be confirmed.

Pancake Day Records Set

Kiwanis Pancake Day at Sacred Heart Cafeteria Saturday broke two records. One in the number of servings (1,497) and another in the sale of tickets sold by one individual (1,230 adults and children.) Secretary Lindsay Edwards gave a detailed report of the day's activities.

Gene Landon, at the club meeting in Bothwell Hotel Thursday noon, reported the following consumption of materials: 368 pounds of pancake mix, 164 pounds of ham, 45 gallons of skim milk, 46 gallons of orange juice, 329 half-pints of white milk, 376 half-pints of chocolate milk, 133 bottles of syrup, one and one-half cases of cooking oil, and 61 pounds of butter.

President Brown complimented all the committees and members who participated in working three shifts and for their sale of tickets. Reports of the latter are not all tabulated but will increase the total amount to the largest since Pancake Day was originated to raise funds for boys and girls work.

An excellent program was presented Thursday by John Brown, Jr., president; and Palmer Nichols, executive director and advisor, of the Sedalia Boys' Club. They related the history and purposes of the national and local organization in the areas of rehabilitation, child development and guidance. The club was started here in 1958 and has its own quarters as well as athletic conveniences. The average cost to sustain the program is less than $14 per year per boy.

Bill Burkholder was program chairman.

Invocation was by the Rev. Medford Speaker. Singing was led by Major Froberg with Mrs. Lillian Maynard accompanist.

Howard Littrell, Kansas City, Kan., was a guest of Gene Landon. Frank Cheathari, Southwestern Bell district manager, Moberly, and Robert Johnson, new Bell manager in Sedalia succeeding Jack Spilker who was transferred to Kansas City, were with Herbert Taylor. David Windsor and Ralph Jones were guests of Roy Brown.

School District To Lose Its Aid

BENTON, Mo. (AP) — The Scott County R-4 School District has elected to forego state financial aid rather than raise its tax levy.

The board of education found it would have to raise its levy by $1.13 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation in order to be eligible for $16,000 in state aid. The current levy is $3.29.

Truman Suffering From Flu

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman was taken to a hospital late Thursday night suffering from what eventually was diagnosed as "simple gastrointestinal flu caused by a virus."

A spokesman for Research Hospital today said that the 84-year-old former chief executive had spent a good night and probably would be released to return home in a few days.

John P. Dreves, hospital public relations director, told a news conference that Truman was stricken after retiring to bed in his home in suburban Independence Thursday night and was admitted to the hospital at 11:40 p.m.

The former president fell asleep after being admitted and was awakened at 4 a.m. today for a routine check of his temperature, pulse, respiration and blood pressure.

Dreves said that Truman then fell asleep again and awoke at 6:30 a.m.

"He is on a liquid diet, which is routine for his diagnosis pending continued improvement," Dreves added.

The hospital spokesman said Truman ate a small amount of gelatin and drank some hot tea for breakfast. He also got out of bed this morning and read a newspaper, Dreves said.

Truman's family physicians were quoted as saying the former president was improved today over his condition Thursday night and was steadily regaining strength.

Mrs. Truman accompanied her husband to the hospital Thursday night, left early today and was back by 10 a.m.

Dreves refused to say what medications were being employed.

Father's Mistake Needs New Home

Dear Ann Landers: Father has a 17-year-old illegitimate daughter. My sister and I are both teen-agers and we have known about Olivia for a long time but we've never met her.

Yesterday Dad received a telegram from Olivia saying her mother has kicked her out of the house. She is now living with neighbors but cannot stay there. Olivia wants to come and live with us.

Mom has said O.K. — on one condition. Olivia must be introduced as a niece, not a daughter. No one outside our immediate family knows the real relationship and my mother says she just couldn't take the gossip.

My sister and I realize Olivia's presence might cause problems but she has had a terrible life and maybe we can help her. We've tried to change Mom's mind but she is adamant. What should be done? — S.A.T.

Dear S.A.T.: Accept your mother's terms, but make it clear that Olivia understands the terms and that she is agreeable. Ordinarily I would not condone duplicity, but this is an extraordinary situation. Helping the girl should be the principal consideration and if this is the only way it can be done, then do it. (P.S. You kids sound like a couple of terrific teen-agers to me. My hat is off to you.)

Dear Ann Landers: My daughters are 13 and 15 years old. They will both be enrolled in a new school next month. The school requires the girls to take gang showers after gym. They both feel this would be very embarrassing and I agree. Do you think girls should be forced to take showers in the presence of others? — MODEST MOTHER

Dear Modest: Girls who have a healthy attitude about their bodies pay little attention to each other during gang showers. Special circumstances, such as a deformity, or if a girl is too fat or under-developed, could alter the situation, however. These girls should be allowed to shower alone. It goes without saying that all showing should be supervised by a teacher. If a girl shows undue interest in her classmates' nakedness, she should shower separately.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a teen-ager who is writing about my grandparents who are not so grand. Last Sunday Dad left the house at 5:30 in the morning to help Grandma and Grandpa with things they should have hired a plumber and a painter for. Dad came home at 11:00 at night, so tired he fell into bed without even taking off his clothes.

Mom was very annoyed. This happens a lot. She says Dad owes his Sundays to his family. Dad says he has to be a good son or he will not be happy. What do you say? — CINCINNATI

Dear Cin: Your dad is still a little boy who is trying to win the love of his parents by knocking himself out for them. Your mother cannot change him, so I hope she will lay off even though she is right.

Retired Teachers Hear Rev. Albright

The Rev. Marvin G. Albright, pastor of the United Church of Christ, was the speaker at the meeting of the Community Retired Teachers Association, Wednesday, Feb. 19. He was introduced by Mrs. Nannie Sims, program committee chairman.

The Rev. Mr. Albright discussed the origin, aims, accomplishments and hopes of the Human Rights Commission of Sedalia. In 1960 this organization was called the Sedalia Community Bi-racial Commission, but since its power was limited, all the organization could do was to call attention to injustices toward minority groups.

A study commission appointed by President Johnson made some startling observations showing that the nation was moving toward two societies, one white and one black. Destruction of property and loss of lives in riots in many cities, he said, brought reactions so rapidly that numerous recommendations have been made.

In 1966 the organization became known as the Human Rights Commission composed of 12 members, five Negroes and seven whites, appointed by the mayor. Now the problem, the Rev. Mr. Albright said, is lack of money.

The purposes of the Commission are as follows: to serve as spokesman, if need be, for people who feel their rights have been denied; to attempt to be a mediator when difficulties arise; and to make people aware of what must be done if the trend toward separate societies is to be reversed.

The speaker told of what had been accomplished by the commission and of hopes for the future — equal rights to service in hotels, motels and restaurants and equal employment, education and housing.

The president, Mrs. Frances Garman, presided at the meeting. The association voted to donate $15 to the American Field Service program.

Mrs. Byron Crist of Windsor was a guest.

Hostesses were: Miss Edna Snell, Mrs. Christine Killion, Miss Linney Swearingen, Mrs. Gertrude Roe and Miss Mila Swearingen.

Baby-food prunes are fine to use when you are making a prune whip and the recipe calls for prune pulp.

Morris Knows Values of Work

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — A high school dropout who learned the value of working and doing at an early age is Missouri's Lieutenant Governor.

William S. Morris, 49, has driven himself hard all his life and is still driving. He is a dynamic man, always on the move.

If he weren't president of the Kansas City Blues hockey club, he might be out there on the ice himself, body checking hard or skating fast for the goal.

When the Blues win, he's exuberant. When they lose, he's down in the dumps, but not for long. He's an early riser and there's always a new day for Bill Morris. Sometimes he's at the Capitol long before regular office hours.

In public life he's a complex, highly motivated man with a Horatio Alger background and an apparently insatiable drive. Privately his tastes are simple and his 11-year-old daughter, Lisa, is the apple of his eye.

She's the little girl who held the Bible when her proud daddy was sworn in as lieutenant governor Jan. 13.

Shortly after that the Senate stripped him of the traditional power to preside over the Senate and Morris was understandably bitter. Since then a working accommodation has been achieved and Morris is presiding every day.

The new rules, however, provide that the president pro tem, Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, R-Hillsboro, can take over the chair at any time. Morris doesn't like that threat hanging over his head but so far there has been no open confrontation on the floor of the Senate and it now seems unlikely that this will happen.

Meanwhile Morris is working hard at the new job Gov. Warren E. Hearnes gave him—handling the administration's patronage. This is a full time job in itself and Morris' office is usually filled with people waiting to see him.

The phones ring constantly and as yet Morris has only one secretary, mild mannered Mrs. Jennie Waggener, widow of the former superintendent of the highway patrol. She's so busy she has to take work home on the weekends to catch up, but admits working for Morris is exciting.

Morris started out in the great American tradition — carrying papers in his hometown of Higginsville, where his father was a coal miner. He was one of five children.

When the old Kansas City Journal and Post merged into one paper, he became a businessman, paying for his own papers and making his own collections on his route.

He also sold popcorn in the local theater, carried logs into his uncle's bakery and in the summertime worked at a bottling plant. It wasn't long before he was making more money than his coal mining father.

When the depression came along, coal mining became unprofitable and young Bill got his first brush with politics. His father ran for town marshal and won the $75 a month job he held for 20 years.

But there wasn't enough money and in 1935 Bill became a high school dropout—until he earned enough money to go back to school. When he did return in 1937, he worked an eight-hour shift for the Leahy Manufacturing Co., which made beehives and incubators.

A friend in town helped him get to college at Wentworth Military School in Lexington by selling him $1 college shares for 50 cents and taking his note for the rest.

By working as a clerk in a law office and as a bus boy in a cafe on Sunday, Morris went to summer school and got through Wentworth in a year and a half.

Then came World War II and Morris was drafted as a $21 a month private in February, 1942. On that pittance he married his childhood sweetheart, Lucile Albers of Higginsville, and went on to officers' candidate school, graduating as a second lieutenant in August, 1942.

Morris trained in the Mojave Desert, ostensibly for duty in North Africa, but instead wound up in Hawaii, New Guinea and the Philippines. It was while in New Guinea, where he made five amphibious landings, that he earned the Silver Star for gallantry in a June 21, 1944 action—the same day his brother was killed in Europe.

In the Philippines he landed on White Beach on Luzon in the second wave on Jan. 9, 1945, then spent 189 days in the front lines as an observer and liaison officer. By this time he was rising in rank and by the end of the war was a major.

He was one of a seven-man team which accepted the Japanese surrender for the southern half of Korea — territory they had occupied for many years.

After the war was over he was discharged at Leavenworth, Kan., Dec. 15, 1945, and made it home just an hour after his father's death.

Then it was back to school. With the help of the GI bill and a job as clerk at the Union National Bank he enrolled in the University of Kansas City law school and got his law degree in 1948. He stayed on with the bank at $250 a month and 10 years later left it as a vice president and trust officer.

He left to take over supervision of the Phillips estate, which included stocks, bonds, real estate scattered over the southwest—and the Phillips Hotel. No one was around to run the hotel, so Morris took over that job.

Meanwhile he had been dabbling in politics. He had been active in the Young Democrats in Lafayette County, where he was president of the club, helped elect a Lafayette County collector and while still working for the Kansas City bank helped elect a Democratic county chairman in a revolt against entrenched party factions.

A few months after he took over the Phillips Hotel, former Gov. James T. Blair appointed him to the Kansas City election board and he was reappointed to that job by former Gov. John M. Dalton, taking over as chairman when the veteran Hampton Chambers died.

He was appointed to fill a vacancy as Jackson County public administrator in November, 1964, and became the first man in that lucrative job to disclose just how lucrative it was. His highest compensation in this fee position was a net of $58,000 after paying 11 employees.

Most of the work he recalls with enjoyment because it was the same thing he had been doing as trust officer of the bank — handling estates. But he was also responsible for the affairs of some 400 incompetents and that part of the job became unpleasant. Many times there was nothing he could do to help them.

So when Lt. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton indicated in 1965 that he might run for the U.S. Senate—a job he won last year—Morris began making preparations. He started campaigning actively when Eagleton formally announced for the Senate.

The rest is recent history—how Morris won a crowded primary race and went on to win the election. In the process he defeated Sen. John E. Downs, D-St. Joseph, and Sen. Blackwell, now president pro tem of the Senate, withdrew from the primary battle.

In the general election, he won without any trouble over Sen. Lem T. Jones Jr., R-Kansas City.

Naturally the political speculators have started tossing his name around as a potential candidate for governor in 1972. As far as Morris is concerned this is still just talk.

"I haven't ruled it out," he says, "but I haven't made up my mind."

Cigar-Smoking Husbands Have Troubles at Home

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — A lot of women dislike men who smoke cigars. But—you know what?—a lot of men who smoke cigars dislike women who don't like men who smoke cigars. They think such women are snippy, prejudiced and misinformed.

Club Notes

Garden Club No. 8 met for a dessert luncheon at the home of Mrs. Earl Wheeler. Decorations featured red carnations in keeping with the Valentine theme. Miniature plants were used as favors.

President, Mrs. Cecil Bohon, presided. She read a poem in tribute to Mr. Terry Pile, husband of one of the members. Mrs. Earl Wheeler gave the treasurer's report and the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Mrs. George Dryden discussed the March meeting to be held at the Farm and Home Building. Mrs. R. O. Smith prepared the topic for the month, "Looking Toward Spring" which was given by Mrs. Bohon.

Exhibit awards for the month went to Mrs. George Dryden, first place and Mrs. Earl Thomas, second. Winners of the horticulture award were Mrs. Earl Wheeler, first and Mrs. Earl Thomas, second.

The Houstonia 4-H Club met Feb. 11 at R-V Elementary School with president, Kathy Alexander, presiding.

Mrs. Bernard Dotson explained the 4-H record folders and the group voted to purchase one for each member.

Certificates and pins were given to past 4-H leaders for their years of service to 4-H. The 4-H mothers presented a skit, "Grumpy Gophers" to illustrate how not to conduct a meeting. The club members then presented a skit on correct parliamentary procedure.

Demonstrations were given by the following: Lois Fischer and Becky Alexander, "How to Make a French Dressing"; Norma Rayl, "How to Make Cheese Dip"; Kathy Alexander, "Food Nutrition"; Connie Fischer, "Pressing Aids."

CLARKSBURG — Mrs. Harold Coffelt was hostess to The Ready and Willing Workers Club Feb. 12 at her home.

Visitors were Mrs. Ma Beuker and children, and Mrs. James Lucas and infant. Members worked on a quilt for the hostess.

A covered dish luncheon was served at noon.

"It's all right if you want to smoke cigarettes," says many a young wife to her husband, "but please don't light up one of those horrible cigars. They smell up the draperies something terrible."

Such a woman tends to value the scent of her draperies above her husband's health. All the medical statistics show that a cigar smoker is far more likely to reach a ripe old age, with less damage to his lungs and heart, than either the cigarette smoker or the pipe smoker.

As a matter of fact, these pernickety wives, if they happen to be chain cigarette smokers as so many modern women are, would probably live longer themselves if they switched to a fine panetela.

Why not? If they demand the right to vote like men, hold jobs that traditionally have belonged to men, wear pants and shirts like men, why shouldn't they also smoke like real he-men?

After all, cigars are enjoyed by many European women such as actress Anna Magnani. Among American women who showed a fondness for cigars were poet Amy Lowell and Poker Alice, the frontier gambling lady.

A quarter-century of cigar smoking has taught me a number of things about its pleasures and advantages.

First, I don't think women dislike cigars for the reason they state—because of their so-called stench. Actually, a good cigar emits, with the possible exception of leaves in autumn, the most fragrant of earth's burning smells.

No, the real reason women dislike cigars is twofold: (1) a woman may be able to sew a fine button but she finds it all but impossible to master the art of smoking a cigar gracefully, and (2) she secretly envies cigars because sometimes they give men more solace and soul satisfaction than she can. Therefore, to her the cigar is a rival, a rival to be ridiculed and destroyed.

Another thing I have discovered is that a cigar, not a dog, is man's best friend.

A cigar does not sit up and beg, but on the other hand it does not leave hairs on the sofa or track mud in on the rug. A cigar does not wag its tail in a friendly manner, but neither does it have to be fed or taken out for walks morning and evening in all kinds of weather. A cigar cannot be taught to fetch your slippers; however, a cigar smoker can always teach his wife to do that.

But what a cigar can do is make a man feel better. It makes him feel masculine in a woman-ridden world. It provides him with release, contentment and even exhilaration. It enlarges his spirit, makes him feel taller.

And, unlike a human friend or a dog, it makes no demands upon him. When he is through with it, he can throw it away without qualms. He does not have to cater to it or toady to it or lend it money.

No wonder so many people are disgruntled at the cigar smoker. He gets more out of life than they do.

Washington: Myth and Man

Americans are hero-makers but not really hero-worshippers. Like the Greeks, we want our gods to be larger than life yet still life-sized, with at least some of the faults and foibles of ordinary men.

That is why we love Lincoln — not just because he saved the Union or freed the slaves but because of his humanness. A man of the humblest beginnings, a failure for much of his life, Lincoln rose to greatness but was all the greater for remaining always one of the people.

Washington, the second greatest figure in the American pantheon, like Robert E. Lee, was perhaps too fine, too noble, too patrician for us to be able to identify with as we do with Lincoln.

Patrician — that is the word that describes Washington; one, as Webster defines it, of high birth, distinguished by superior breeding and a high degree of cultivation; a finished gentleman.

If America was ever to have had a nobility, it would have begun with Washington. Indeed, there were some who wanted to confer the title of king upon him. He would have none of it.

Nineteenth-century historians made a demigod of Washington, and for good reasons, but it was to the lasting detriment of Washington the man.

He was a big man — six-feet-two and 210 pounds — who enjoyed physical exertion. He liked his cup of cheer and feminine company. Bad teeth plagued him all his life. The ill-fitting rhinoceros-horn false teeth he had to put up with distorted his mouth, making him reluctant to smile and causing him to appear sterner than he really was.

Yet he was capable of fierce rages. He also knew despair. During the British invasion of Manhattan in 1776, with his raw troops disintegrating around him, ignoring his commands to stand and fight, Washington was so disheartened and so lost his presence of mind that he would have been captured by the enemy had not an aide seized his horse's bridle and led him to safety.

We forget, too, that the common people of the day loved him. A French visitor to the United States in 1793 wrote that everywhere he went he encountered expressions of the affection the people felt for the first president.

Washington also loved America, or what was at the beginning of the Revolution only the idea of America, an idea which many of his contemporaries lacked breadth of vision enough to share.

Lincoln had the common touch; Washington was an aristocrat. Yet as president, Lincoln exercised an authoritarianism Washington never dreamed of. Lincoln searched three years for a general; Washington was a general who for six years had constantly to try to patch together an army. Lincoln preserved the Union, but it was thanks to Washington that there ever was a Union to be preserved.

Different men of different times, but not so very different after all. It is altogether fitting that we honor them both in the same month.

Congress Awaits Nixon Program

DREW PEARSON and JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — It has now been a month since Richard M. Nixon took the oath to be President of the United States, in one of the most inspiring inauguration ceremonies in history after one of the closest elections in history.

The general appraisal of newsmen during that one month is that he has done well. The general appraisal of congressional leaders is that he has failed to set forth a domestic program for them to follow. This is expressed privately, and in varying degree, according to whether the congressmen are Republicans or Democrats, since the congressional honeymoon is still very much in force.

Nevertheless, it remains a fact that any new president, within his first month in office, customarily sends to Congress a state of the union message outlining his program for the nation and the legislation he wants Congress to pass to implement that program. Instead, President Nixon is leaving two days hence for a whirlwind tour of Europe.

It has leaked out that there has been division among his advisers as to whether he should send such a message to Congress, and the majority opinion has been negative.

In general, it has been felt that the new president should give the nation a cooling-off period, that is no immediate crisis, that the public needs a respite from too much legislation. Nixon staff members say with pride that their boss has a complete grasp of the affairs of the nation, that he acts with decision in Cabinet Staff meetings, that he understands the machinery of government, and that the country can afford to mark time for a month or so before he unfolds his program.

— LBJ'S HANGOVER —

On the other hand, Democratic leaders say that, failing to get a Nixon program, they must go ahead with the Johnson program, and this is exactly what they are proceeding to do.

The former President outlined a comprehensive program in his last state of the union message, and Democratic leaders in both the House and Senate are proceeding to enact the appropriations to carry it out. So unless the new Republican President comes along with something soon, the nation will see Johnson hangover legislation governing the United States for another year.

Furthermore, congressional leaders would like to see the new President's concrete and final ideas on such bedrock domestic issues as public housing, the antipoverty program, education, antitrust, banking monopoly, small business, and agriculture.

Nixon has managed rather astutely to modify his campaign promises about missile superiority to missile sufficiency; and has also climbed down from his protectionist views on foreign trade. But the Congress definitely needs to know how he feels about such a burning issue as the big cities, some of which are almost bankrupt, and all of which face the problems of public housing, slum clearance, better schools and racial friction.

In Washington, the new President has made an

by Mort Reed

Here they are....

MR. REED: I have a quarter dated 1900 with the head of Liberty facing to the right and the motto IN GOD WE TRUST above her head. It is worn but most of the design is still readable. Another girl in our office says she has a half-dollar with the same design and the same date. Is this possible? — Anonymous, Wooster, Ohio

DEAR ANONYMOUS: Yes, it is possible. Charles E. Barber, the sixth engraver of the mint, designed both coins. As a matter of fact, he executed the design for a dime of that series and is also responsible for the Liberty-head nickel of 1883.

The dime, quarter-dollar and half-dollar were issued in 1892. The quarter and half are almost identical and are the last two denominations of our coinage to bear similar devices. This was a practice years ago but was discontinued for no apparent reason in the 20th century.

As a point of interest, you may like to know that Barber was the first designer to apply both the five-point and six-point star to one coin. His initial B may be found at the truncation of the neck of Liberty.

DEAR SIR: I have an 1879-S silver dollar and an 1882-O. Both are in almost uncirculated condition. Can you tell me what they are worth? — Mrs. H. McDonald (Mobile Press Register).

DEAR MRS. McDONALD: "A Guide Book of United States Coins" shows 9,110,000 silver dollars were struck at San Francisco in 1879. One using the reverse die of 1878 has parallel feathers on the arrows and is valued at $3 very fine, $7 extra fine and $17 uncirculated. A second specimen of this date using a new die shows the feathers indicated in a slant and valued at $1.75 very fine, $2.25 extra fine and $4 uncirculated. The 1882 is roughly the same price as the second variety of 1879.

DEAR MR. REED: Would you please tell me when will we be able to order 1969 Mint sets? — Martin Marchese, Trumbull, Conn. (Bridgeport Post).

DEAR MR. MARCHESE: This column will carry full information on ordering 1969 Mint sets as soon as it is available.

MR. REED: I have several hundred pennies and want to use them to pay my taxes, but I have been told they are not acceptable. Is this true and if so, why? — Roy W. Mansfield, Ohio (Ashland Gazette).

DEAR ROY W: There was a time when the lowly one-cent piece was acceptable as legal tender in the amount of four cents and no more. This is no longer the case. As was said of a rose, money is money. However, if you are referring to federal taxes, they may be refused only because of inconvenience. If it is a local tax, take them to your nearest bank and exchange for paper currency.

One way to get to four spades is to bid it. Sometimes you make your contract, sometimes you get set, but you do make it mightily hard for the other side to get into the bidding.

South had all this in mind when he opened with four spades. We wouldn't have made the bid. South had only six spades and also no singleton, and for all South knew his side belonged in a part score or in three no-trump.

We do have one strong feeling about this sort of bid. If you bid it, you should know how to play the hand.

South ruffed the third heart and drew trumps. Then he led a diamond and ducked in dummy. East overtook his partner's 10 with the jack and returned a club. South finessed dummy's jack unsuccessfully and could only make nine tricks. He pointed out that if he had made the alternate play of rising with the king of clubs and trying to break the diamonds, he would also have gone down.

He was right about that but should have made his contract. After ruffing the third heart he should have played his ace of trumps to see if anyone held all five. When both opponents followed, he should have abandoned trumps temporarily and ducked a diamond. Assuming East overtook his partner's 10 and returned a club, he should have played his king of clubs, led a diamond to dummy's ace, ruffed a third diamond with a high trump, entered dummy with the 10 of spades, ruffed a fourth diamond, drawn trumps and eventually discarded one of his clubs on dummy's fifth diamond.

This play would succeed against the actual holding and was sure otherwise to succeed provided there was no really bad suit break out against him. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

QUICK QUIZ

Q—What great scientist was once offered the presidency of the State of Israel?

A—Albert Einstein, when President Chaim Weizmann died in 1952. He declined this honor, insisting that he was not fitted for such a position.

Q—What period is covered by the equinox?

A—Vernal equinox is the first day of spring and the autumnal equinox is the first day of autumn—equinox is that period when the days and nights are of equal length.

BETTY CANARY

'Individual' Woman

There was a time when the end of February turned a woman into a sighing creature who shuffled from window to window watching for the first sign of spring. Soon, she would tell herself, I'll be airing the carpets and I'll paint the closets and put rose-patterned wallpaper in the upstairs bedroom. And she started squeezing the grocery budget for the latest what-not shelf Grand Rapids had to offer — just so she could keep her horse up-to-date.

Modern appliances sounded the death knell for spring cleaning. Also, a woman member of our affluent society no longer waits for a general spruce-up period in order to bring her home up-to-date. She is at it the year around with a sort of dedicated determination to be what we call contemporary.

Even traditionalists with polished pine wash stands in every corner shudder at the thought of not being attuned to the times.

Just the other day I was having lunch with friends and we were laughing about one woman's son telling her that he wore sideburns because "kids today are individuals and we all wear sideburns." Then we took turns convincing each other that we were also individuals and not given to following the pack.

Ethel, whose beautiful home is a perfect setting for her fine antique furniture, confided that she had brightened up her kitchen with flower power decals. "I'm not rooted in the 18th century," she announced. "I'm allowing my own personality to come out."

The decals she had chosen in this burst of individualism turned out to be the same crazy-daisies our friend Pat had glued to the fenders of her car. Identical copies of those I have strewn on my upstairs hallway floor.

Pouting now, Ethel tossed us another gauntlet. "You should see the plastic pillows I have in the den!" she said. "Inflated ones with arrows and bull's-eyes painted on them—awfully new, but I AM contemporary, if I do say so."

Of course, Pat had to tell her about the inflated pillows she has in her television room—just so Ethel wouldn't think Pat got the idea from her and thereby became a style follower instead of a leader. Frankly, I didn't tell them about the ones I have in my bedroom chairs because I think I'll be able to hide them before they get that far into my house.

"I believe in expressing myself, too," I bragged. "Have you seen the ostrich feathers in the blue vase on my living room floor?"

"Yes—like the ones I have on top of the piano," Pat said.

"Like the ones I have on my stereo?" Ethel asked.

"Well," I said, "of course, I don't like them as well as I do the prayer mat from Malaysia I have hung on my dining room wall."

"I don't like mine as well as the Victorian fringed shawl I have hung on my dining room wall either," Pat agreed.

"I'm taking down the Japanese screen I've hung on MY dining room wall," Ethel shrieked.

"Shall we talk about something else?" I asked.

"How about semantics," Pat suggested. "Yes," Ethel agreed. "First word—contemporary."

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Allergist Should Find Cause of Giant Hives

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q — I have had angioneurotic edema of my lips for four years. The attacks come on suddenly and are very upsetting because in my job I have to meet the public. I am taking Librium three times a day. It doesn't help much. Is there anything better?

A — A careful examination by an allergist should help you to find the cause of your giant hives and eliminate it. Just because your diagnosis contains the word "neurotic" doesn't mean that taking a tranquilizer will cure you.

Q — When I handle ice cubes I get a severe itching in my hands. Could this be an allergy to cold?

A — It could be a physical allergy to cold or a mild case of chilblain. You'd better wear gloves when you handle ice.

Q — I am a girl, 19. Is there any age limit on the Roman slimming method you described in a recent column? Do the injections of human chorionic gonadotropin (HCG) cause any bad side effects? How long does it take to get all 40 injections? Is the exercise, much as jogging or swimming, permitted while on this diet? Following this diet how long would it take to lose 25 pounds?

A — Although Dr. Simeon's treatment finds its greatest appeal for women in their late 30s and early 40s, it is suitable for adults of any age. No undesirable side effects have been reported when the injections are given as directed but too large a dose in female adolescents or young adults may have a virilizing effect — hair on the face, acne, menstrual irregularity and deepening of the voice.

The duration of the treatment varies — five or six weeks is the average. Exercise is permitted after the first seven to 10 days. Those who strictly adhere to the method may lose from eight to 24 ounces a day but should not lose more than 35 pounds in any six-week period.

Q — I am told that doctors have varied opinions about the Roman slimming method. What are the pros and cons?

A — Some doctors are skeptical about the value of the injections of HCG and some claim to have tried the method without success. To be successful, the method must be carried out exactly as originally described. Failures have been shown to be due to modifications. The chief advantages of the plan are that it enables a person to adhere to a low-calorie diet without being hungry and that those who follow it seem to lose fat in the places where they are most anxious to lose it.

Louisiana, with 55.11 inches, has the greatest annual average rainfall of any state in the continental United States.

Terrible Burden for Scott

EDITOR'S NOTE—Three astronauts are scheduled to be launched into space on Feb. 28 in another step toward the goal of landing U.S. spacemen on the moon by mid-1969. The Apollo 9 mission, probably the most complex of the manned flights yet, will test the lunar module which eventually will take astronauts to the moon's surface. The following third of three articles tells of Lt. Col. David R. Scott's part in the historic mission.

By PAUL RECER
AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — David R. Scott, carrying a burden unlike any man before, will be the life guard on Apollo 9, standing a lonely vigil of safety for his crew mates as they test the untried lunar module.

Scott, a 36-year-old Air Force lieutenant colonel, remains in the command and service module, CSM on Apollo 9 while Air Force Col. James A. McDivitt and Russell L. Schweickart board the lunar module in space and fly up to 100 miles away from the mother ship in a rendezvous maneuver.

Should the lunar module, or LEM, malfunction, the lives of McDivitt and Schweickart will depend on the decisions Scott makes and on how well he is able to perform a complex rescue.

"When we are separated," said McDivitt, speaking of the solo flight of LEM during the mission, "Dave has a lot more responsibility than anyone's probably ever had before. . . . He has to be able to evaluate any critical situation which might arise in his spacecraft and weigh the risk of his life in rescuing us against the certain loss of our lives. . . . He's placed in a position that a lot of people don't really appreciate."

Scott is the command module pilot on Apollo 9, the 10-day space flight scheduled for launch Feb. 28. The mission is in earth orbit, but it's a major stepping stone to the moon because it will verify the design of the lunar module.

Scott's job will be the least spectacular of the Apollo 9 trio. He has no extravehicular activity, or space walk, as does Schweickart. Nor will he transfer to the LEM while it's docked with the CSM, as will both Schweickart and McDivitt.

But the success of the mission rests very heavily on Scott.

His first major job after Apollo 9 is launched into space is to separate the command module from the S4B, the third launch booster stage. He'll then fly the CSM out a few feet, turn around and return, nose first, to the booster stage.

Nestled in the end of the S4B is the LEM. Scott's job is to poke a probe on the nose of his command module into a 39-inch cone, called a drogue, covering a docking collar on the LEM.

If his marksmanship is good, the spacecrafts will lock together. Scott will "put it in reverse" and back away from the S4B, extracting the LEM now locked on the nose of the cone-shaped CSM.

This must be done properly before anything else in the flight is possible.

Then, 40 hours after the flight starts, Scott becomes the "gate keeper" for McDivitt and Schweickart. Scott will be in charge of removing and replacing the drogue, the probe and the CSM hatch. When he removes the heavy equipment, it opens a tunnel to the LEM. When he replaces them, the two spacecrafts become separate vehicles again, although still locked together.

Scott will have to wrestle with this equipment six times during the next three days of the flight.

Just before the start of their fifth day into the mission, McDivitt and Schweickart move over to the LEM through the tunnel for their fifth trip between the two vehicles.

The pair power up the LEM, give Scott the green light, and the command module pilot retracts the probe and moves the CSM about 30 feet away from the LEM, now flying by itself for the first time.

LEM's first solo is a rough simulation of the job it was designed to do—carry two men from a mother ship orbiting the moon down to the lunar surface, something this country hopes to do in June or July.

But in Apollo 9, LEM will be flying where it was not designed to fly. The lightweight craft was built for lunar orbit, not earth orbit, and it is not equipped to survive a re-entry into earth's atmosphere. If it gets in trouble in earth orbit, LEM must return to the CSM or its crewmen perish.

Only Scott, flying the heavy command module designed for an earth landing, can prevent disaster if LEM falters.

Like most birds first leaving their nest, LEM tests its wings in easy stages.

"Mama bird", the CSM and Scott, makes the first move. Scott fires a small thrust toward the earth, causing the CSM to move ahead and below the LEM. This creates an "equiperiod" orbital path, which means the spacecrafts would move back together automatically at the end of one orbit. Should LEM falter early, the "life guard" would be at hand within 90 minutes.

But if LEM is still healthy halfway through the orbit, McDivitt will fire the descent engine. This burn moves the LEM orbit up to 12.6 miles from the CSM at the farthest point, but would still return it to within 3.2 miles of the mother ship after one orbit.

If all is well, then another descent engine burns places LEM in an orbit parallel to that of Scott and the CSM, but farther out in space.

Since the LEM is farther from earth, it will be orbiting more slowly and will fall behind the CSM at the rate of 71 miles an hour.

When the distance widens to 86 miles, McDivitt separates the ascent stage of the LEM from the descent stage, a maneuver similar to that of astronauts flying from the surface of the moon. The ascent engine is fired, kicking LEM into an orbit 11.5 miles below the CSM and 86 miles behind.

Another burn puts LEM into a parallel orbit with the CSM, but this time between the mother ship and earth. This causes LEM to speed up and it begins to catch up with the CSM at the rate of 69 miles an hour.

In less than an hour, LEM is only 23 miles behind and 11.5 miles below. At this point, McDivitt fires the LEM reaction control thrusters and hurtles his flimsy craft on a collision course with the CSM. He slams on the brakes, forward thrusting rockets, and drifts to within a few feet of the CSM. The rendezvous is completed and the LEM docks.

Scott, the life guard, the one link to safety, is not waiting idly for the young bird to return home during the six hours of rendezvous maneuvering.

After the first separation burn, Scott plots maneuvers which would be a "mirror image" to those planned by the LEM.

Should the LEM fail to fire any of its planned burns at the correct time, Scott has 60 seconds to fire a "mirror image" burn. This would leave the spacecraft in the planned relative positions, and the LEM, if it has corrected its malfunction, could carry on with the rest of the rendezvous.

If the LEM is still disabled, Scott would do all of the rest of the rendezvous burns, bringing the spacecrafts together. This would enable him to rescue his teammates aboard the disabled LEM.

In effect, Scott will be doing everything that would be required of the command module pilot if he were actually performing the rendezvous himself. The only difference is that he will not light his rocket thrusters unless the LEM is disabled.

And at the same time, Scott must control and monitor the CSM, the most complicated flying machine ever made by man.

No Slowing Of Economy Is Detected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commerce Department says indicators were uniformly bullish in January, showing no signs of the long-awaited—and predicted—slacking of the economy.

"All of the broad economic measures now available were up over the preceding month," said the department, including employment, wages and salaries, industrial production, retail sales and housing starts.

"Wholesale prices advanced sharply according to advance reports," said the department's monthly summary of the business situation. "In credit markets, heavy demands coupled with restrictive monetary policy brought interest rates to new peaks."

The report made no reference to last week's meeting in Paris of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, at which U.S. officials were quoted as saying the long awaited slowdown was at last developing.

"In general, we are on the right course," Chairman Paul W. McCracken of the Council of Economic Advisers, highest ranking member of the U.S. delegation, told newsmen.

The meeting itself was closed to reporters, but foreign sources said the CEA chairman's remarks conveyed strongly the impression that the U.S. growth rate was beginning to yield to government rein tugging.

The report comes after four days of testimony before the joint Senate-House Economic Committee at which administration officials indicated the 10 percent income tax probably should be retained another year.

In another report Thursday, the Commerce Department said new orders for durable goods showed a 1 per cent rise in January, considerably stronger than the 2 per cent expansion in December.

Hickel Happy That Nixon Takes Oil Responsibility

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel, already on notice from some Congressmen that they would watch his every move, says he is glad to have the White House take over responsibility for oil import policy.

"I think it's great," said Hickel after President Nixon informed him of the move in a memo Thursday. "That's where it has historically been. It should never have been removed from there in the first place."

Nixon also announced an "extensive review in detail and in the aggregate" of the present policy of permitting limited imports of oil, established in 1959 by Dwight D. Eisenhower.

It had been the President's responsibility until Lyndon Johnson assumed office in 1963 and, because of his Texas oil-state background, delegated the whole can of worms to Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall.

Hickel himself has been vulnerable to charges he might be sympathetic to oil interests because of past business connections, his governorship of Alaska—its oil state—and his choice of aides.

His connections and past business dealings came under intense scrutiny during prolonged confirmation hearings before the Senate Interior Committee. Several members made it clear that they would pay close attention to Hickel's actions as secretary.

Hickel himself, in a statement, said he had urged Nixon to assume the responsibility.

Nixon said that many important and complex oil import issues must be dealt with soon and have not been studied in depth for 10 years.

He did not specify the issues, but there are plenty to choose from.

One is the basic question of whether, or at what level, oil imports should be allowed.

The federal government has taken the position that a limit is necessary to protect national security from becoming dependent on foreign oil.

It has fixed the level of vastly cheaper imported oil at 12.2 percent of domestic production east of the Rocky Mountains. The West Coast is allowed to make up its regional oil deficit with imports.

Still another explosive issue is the proposal of Occidental Petroleum Corp. to build an oil refinery in a requested foreign trade zone in Maine and—technically outside the U.S. market—feed it with foreign oil.

Occidental wants to sell part of its production as fuel oil in New England, and the project has strong backing from Sens. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, and Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and other New England

Congressmen and state officials.

Muskie, reached in New York, said: "I am not surprised. It was rather expected. It doesn't change the substance of the problem because I am quite sure Secretary Hickel would not have made any kind of decision without the approval of the President."

Kennedy could not be reached for comment.

Sen. William E. Proxmire, D-

Wis., one of the sharpest critics of Hickel's appointment, issued a statement commending "the President's good judgment in taking control of the oil import program away from Secretary Hickel."

"For too long," Proxmire said, "the oil companies have treated the Interior Department as their policy-making arm. The President's action hopefully will take control of the program away from the oil companies."

Moscow's Planner Sees Big Future

MOSCOW (AP) — Moscow's mayor describes the Soviet capital of the future as an orderly, well-controlled city that will provide its 6.8 million residents with "maximum conveniences" by 1980.

Mayor Vladimir Promyslov, pointing to mockups of projected new apartment buildings, boulevards and subway lines, told a news conference that the crowded living conditions that have plagued Moscow for decades have improved for about 1 million Muscovites in the past two years.

He predicted that by 1975 everyone in town will have a telephone and that he and his planners are preparing for an expected eightfold increase in automobile traffic in Moscow by 1975.

Roadrunners Take Game From Trenton Five Here

The State Fair Community College Roadrunners extended their winning streak to 14 Thursday night when they romped past Trenton Junior College's Pirates 64-53 in a game in Sedalia.

The Roadrunners took a narrow four-point lead into the second half of play, but capitulated on it with the help of Dave Bratcher, who slapped the backboards for 14 rebounds and collected 13 points.

Dick Phillips took scoring honors for the Roadrunners with 14 points on seven field goals, but Trenton's Dave Davis, a sparky guard who connected on eight field goals, led scoring for the night with 16 tallies.

Jim Richardson, Trenton forward, collected 13 points in five field goals and three free throws to round things out for the Pirates.

The Roadrunners are scheduled to take their 144 season record to Kemper in a road game Saturday night, but according to Coach Fred Wehking, the game is in question due to an outbreak of scarletina in Cole County.

Concerning Thursday's game, Wehking said, "They outscored us 18-10 in the first few minutes, mostly because we didn't have our hands in their faces. But our defense began to click a little later and we pulled ahead to stay."

Wehking considered Trenton a good ball club, but said the Pirate's drive faded in the latter minutes of the ball game.

Thursday's score:

SFCC 29-64
Trenton 25-53
Individual scoring: SFCC — Greg Laird, 3-0-6; Gayland Lightfoot, 3-4-10; Dick Phillips, 7-0-14; Dave Bratcher, 5-3-13; Don Cook, 2-2-6; Ron Kiderlen, 4-1-9; Jerry Wright, 2-2-6. Trenton — Paul Cheek, 0-1-1; Frank Curtis, 3-1-7; Dave Davis, 8-0-16; Rich Griffen, 2-0-4; Terry Lewis, 5-1-11; Jim Richardson, 5-3-13; Greg Newburn, 0-1-1.

Irish Roll Past New York In Sixth Straight Victory

By MIKE RECHT

Associated Press Sports Writer
Two trips to New York in one season is enough for Notre Dame. Now the Irish want a second shot at UCLA, and the way they're going, they might get it.

The unranked Irish, headed toward one of their finest basketball seasons, rolled past a tough New York U. club 98-88 Thursday night at Madison Square Garden for their sixth straight victory and an 18-5 record.

A week from Saturday Notre Dame returns to New York for a match against seventh-ranked St. John's and regardless of the outcome, the Irish are almost a certainty to get postseason bids to the NCAA tournament and the NIT in the Garden.

Given that choice, Coach Johnny Dee says the Irish will forsake another trip to the big city in hopes of getting another shot at UCLA.

"We want the chance to play the champions of conferences and we'd like another crack at Kentucky and UCLA," Dee said after his club wiped out NYU in the second half.

Notre Dame, an independent, lost to UCLA 88-75 in the second game of the season and fell to Kentucky 110-90 five games later, but the Irish are 13-2 since then and an optimistic bunch.

"Maybe on a certain night we could beat UCLA," center Bob Whitmore said. "There's always that chance."

Marquette, another team with a chance for the other NCAA bid that will go to a Midwest independent, raised its record to 19-4 with a 65-61 triumph at Denver. The Warriors, ranked 20th, were the only ranked team in action Thursday night on a light college schedule.

Elsewhere, Houston blasted Lamar Tech 95-71, Drake gunned down Wichita State 120-94, Arizona upset New Mexico 77-75, Wake Forest edged North Carolina State 52-49, Arizona State defeated Wyoming 87-79 and in the opener of the Garden doubleheader, Temple crushed Manhattan 93-68.

Whitmore teamed with Austin Carr and Bob Arzen to bury NYU as the trio combined for 69 points. After Carr, a sophomore flash who missed 11 games with injuries, scored 15 of his 25 points to put Notre Dame ahead 47-41 at the half, Arzen and Whitmore split 26 points in the final half as the Irish surged ahead 95-72. NYU scored 14 straight points to make the score respectable.

Whitmore finished with 24 points and Arzen 20.

Marquette had problems with lowly Denver and was unable to take the lead until Joe Thomas hit a free throw with 4:40 left as Denver, 2-22, managed only three points in the final six minutes. Thomas finished with 17 points.

Drake, still nursing hopes in the Missouri Valley Conference, put on the shooting show of the night, hitting a stunning 67.1 per cent from the field, including 30 of 38 in the final half. Drake led 52-43 at the half.

Willie McCarter scored 27 points for the Bulldogs.

Temple, another tournament hopeful, raised its record to 17-6 by running off the first 17 points against Manhattan, which went scoreless for the first 6½ minutes. Joe Cromer had 21 points for the Owls.

Royals Schedule Organized Work

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — The Kansas City Royals scheduled their first organized workout in the history of the expansionist American league baseball team today, with the ranks considerably reduced by the players' boycott of spring training.

Of the 62 players listed on the Royals' training camp roster about 35 of them were expected to show up. Four have been granted permission to report late, and the other 23 or so presumably are honoring the Major League Baseball Players Association's strike call.

At that, the Royals are far better off than the established major league clubs, some of whom will have only a smattering of rookies available for their first workouts.

The reason so many reported to the Royals is that a good many of the Royals players are rookies who are not yet members of the Players Association, and some others are veterans making a last gasp at a big league job and do not wish to jeopardize their slim chances by not reporting.

Royals General Manager Cedric Tallis said the 35 players he expects have all signed their contracts. He said none will be permitted to work out until they sign. The Players Association has urged its members not to sign until a dispute with the owners—centered on the owners' pension contributions—is settled.

The four excused from early Kansas City drills are pitchers John Warden, who will be a few days late getting out of the Army; catcher Fran Healy, who also is completing military training; catcher John Martinez, who is in school; and infielder Mike Sinnerud.

Manager Joe Gordon said the first training session would consist of calisthenics and batting practice, with each pitcher throwing five minutes.

The Hall of Famer is slated to pick up an estimated 10-per cent share in the club for cut-rate prices, plus a plump salary ranging up to $100,000 a year to help him pay for the stock purchases.

Baseball Players, Owners Maneuver

NEW YORK (AP) — Major league baseball players were set to deliver a new pension pitch to the club owners today while a federal mediator warmed up in the bullpen and Commissioner Bowie Kuhn fidgeted in the dugout.

The players' association, which rejected the owners' latest pension proposal by a 24-0 vote of club representatives, requested another bargaining session today for the purpose of submitting a counter offer.

At the players' behest, federal mediator Frank Brown scheduled a meeting with both both parties Monday at his New York office.

Meanwhile, Kuhn, the game's new chief executive, expressed distress over the prolonged impasse and asked both sides to continue negotiations on a daily basis until a settlement is reached.

"This delay in resolving the dispute is injurious to baseball in general and the players and the clubs in particular," said the Commissioner from Florida, where most of the established major leaguers are boycotting advance spring training camps.

The owners proposed last weekend to add $200,000 to an original offer of a $1 million increase in their pension contribution, bringing the total to $5.3 million. The players are asking for a $6.5 million package, to include a slice of television and broadcasting revenue.

After the player representatives turned down the offer Wednesday, John Gaherin, negotiator for the owners, suggested the offer be submitted for a vote of the entire association membership. But Marvin Miller, executive director of the association, said he didn't feel a time-consuming poll of all the players was justified, considering the player reps' unanimous rejection.

Dick Moss, counsel for the association, released a statement Thursday asking for another meeting with the owners today. In view of the 24-0 rejection of the owners' last offer, the statement read, "it is our intention to make a new proposal for the owners' consideration in an attempt to reach a settlement of this dispute."

"Despite the tremendous amount of publicity which has been given to the signing of a few veteran players of the 402 players who last winter authorized use of their names in support of the policy of not signing and not reporting to training camp, 391 have not signed salary contracts and have not reported to spring training."

Brown, regional director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, agreed to step in at the request of the players. But the government's intervention does not represent binding arbitration, sought by the players earlier in the week but turned down by the owners.

Cyclones Meet Front-Runners

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Iowa State gets its last chance Saturday afternoon to finish taking out its frustrations for a poor start this season in the Big Eight basketball race.

The Cyclones entertain front-running Colorado at Ames, Iowa, in the Big Eight's regionally televised game-of-the-week, and it's the last crack they get at one of the conference's top teams. They wind up against Oklahoma and Oklahoma State.

The feature attraction of a full slate of Big Eight games, Iowa State will be out to duplicate its feat of beating Kansas and Missouri on the Cyclones' home floor. Of the Big Eight contenders, only Kansas State has gone into Ames and beaten the Cyclones, and that was back on Jan. 4 by 75-65 when Iowa State got off to its bad start and lost 4 of its first 5 league games.

Since that beginning, the Cyclones have captured five victories in six conference outings and have climbed into the first division with a 6-5 league mark.

Colorado still is on top with an 8-2 record, but both Kansas and Kansas State are nipping at the Buffaloes' heels, and the race could be thrown into a virtual three-way tie if Iowa State upsets the Buffs.

Kansas (7-3) is at home Saturday night against Nebraska (2-7). Kansas State (6-3) is host to Oklahoma State (4-6) and Missouri (5-5) entertains Oklahoma (1-8).

With that line-up, Colorado appears in the most serious jeopardy of the leaders.

Colorado is riding along on the scoring feats of brilliant sophomore Cliff Melly and hustling Gordon Tope, presently the top 1-2 scoring combination in the Big Eight.

Meely is averaging 25 points in conference games and Tope 16 for a 41-point average between them. Meely needs only 14 points to become the top one-season scorer in Colorado history. He has 511 points.

Close behind are a pair of Iowa Staters, however. Bill Cain is second in the league at 24.4 and Aaron Jenkins is averaging 16.2 for a combined 40.6. Cain and Meely also are stag-

Drake 'Dogs' Set a Stage For Showdown

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Drake's blazing hot Bulldogs have set the stage for their showdown Saturday night in Tulsa.

The Bulldogs shot out the white of Wichita State's eyes Thursday night in drubbing the Shockers, 120-94, for Drake's ninth victory in 12 Missouri Valley Conference games.

Drake now moves into Tulsa to battle the co-leading Hurricane, which stands 10-2. Louisville, also 10-2, is at home against Cincinnati in the other key Valley game Saturday night.

North Texas State goes to Bradley for the afternoon regional television game, while St. Louis is at Southern Illinois Saturday night for a non-conference tussle.

Drake drilled 67 per cent of its shots from the field and sank a phenomenal 30 or 38 shots in the second half for 79 per cent.

Wichita's shocked Shockers hit 50 per cent of their shots but couldn't keep up.

Willie McCarter led Drake with 27 points, the same as Wichita's Jack Matthews. Behind them, Al Williams added 23 for Drake and Ron Mendell 22 for Wichita, now 5-8 in the MVC.

It was the only Valley game scheduled Friday night as all hands gird for Saturday night's shootouts in Tulsa and Louisville.

"This is the one we must have," Tulsa Coach Ken Hayes said this week in emphasizing the importance of a Hurricane victory over Drake. "If we can't bounce back like a championship team should, then we don't deserve to be the conference champions."

Individual scoring: Pueblos — Patrick, 4; Faubion, 2; Spruell, 14; Buckner, 8; Stabury, 4; Sioux — Van Horn, 1; Robinson, 6; Deul, 2; Fisher, 1; Fall, 4.

Game With Kemper Off Again

Extension of a medical restriction at Kemper Military Academy, Boonville, has forced another cancellation of a game which had been scheduled for Saturday night between Kemper and State Fair Community College.

Roadrunners coach Fred Wehking said there was a possibility the Kemper team would come here for a game next Tuesday. The academy has experience several cases of scarletina recently.

Theft of Animals

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Jethro, a tiny 2-year-old monkey, usually tethered in the center of the zoo at Swope Park, disappeared Thursday and Don Dietlein, director, said he was apparently kidnapped.

"Maybe we ought to go back to putting all the animals behind heavy bars and glass," said the director who added that during the last year the zoo has lost two sets of raccoons, three goats, a crane, and all of the guinea pigs from the children's zoo.

Shaw Trial Recess

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The judge took under advisement today a defense request for an order directing that Clay Shaw be found innocent of conspiring to assassinate President John F. Kennedy.

Judge Edward A. Haggerty Jr. of Criminal District Court said he would give his decision Friday morning. Court was recessed for the rest of today.

"I already had agreed to excuse the jurors for the rest of the day to enable the defense to summon its witnesses," Haggerty said. "This period will enable me to read the full transcript of Perry Russo's testimony."

Russo, 27, a New Orleans book salesman, was the state's key witness on the conspiracy charge. He testified that he overheard Shaw, Lee Harvey Oswald and David W. Ferrie plotting to kill Kennedy.

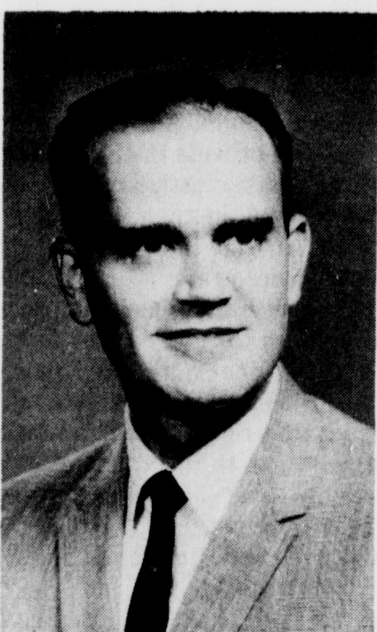

In the motion for a directed verdict, attorney F. Irvin Dymond argued that Russo's testimony actually damaged the prosecution when he admitted he heard no agreement between the three men and considered it a "bull session."

Dymond cited the state law which defines the conspiracy as an agreement or combination of two or more persons to commit a criminal act.

Asst. Dist. Atty. James L. Alcock, who made the state's argument while Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison sat listening at the prosecution table, said the case should go to the jury. He said the judge, in various rulings during the course of the five-week-old trial, has held that the state had a prima facie case.

The motion for a directed verdict came after the state lost a state supreme court fight to force Haggerty to admit New Orleans policeman Aloysius Haggerty's testimony which Haggerty had barred from the trial as legally tainted and probably false.

Lawrence Is New Manager For C of C

Charles Lawrence

Charles K. Lawrence, Moberly, has been named new secretary-manager for the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce. He will assume his duties March 1, filling a vacancy created by the resignation of Gary Cooper several months ago.

Lawrence was born and raised in Sedalia, but moved from the city after graduating from Smith-Cotton High School in 1958.

Since then he attended the University of Missouri at Columbia, and has had extensive experience in public relations work with radio station KXEO of Mexico, and radio station, KLEX of Lexington.

For the last two years he has been district manager of the Missouri Auto Club at Moberly.

Lawrence is married to the former Barbara McMackin and they have one son, Doug, age 6. He plans to move his family to Sedalia as soon as possible.

Coming Down

This scene is being repeated several times a day in Sedalia as crews from the Mid-West Tree Service of Sedalia and Clinton cut away at some 400 dead trees they have contracted to remove. This particular tree was on the Ohio Street side of the Calvary Episcopal Church. Trees are being removed from city-owned property only. (Democrat-Capitol photo).

Senator Invites Wrath Through a Tax Proposal

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Last week members of the Senate Ways and Means Committee became irritated with witnesses testifying in opposition to proposed legislation. This week they turned on one of their fellow senators.

Sen. Maurice Schechter, D-Creve Coeur, was accused Wednesday night of "selling" a bill to the Senate that would make Missouri's income tax laws comply with federal laws, without making substantial changes in reductions or exemptions.

Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, president pro tem, told Schechter he thought the bill had been prepared against Senate rules because it failed to point out changes in the present law.

Schechter replied it merely deleted all the present Missouri income tax law and created a new one.

Blackwell then said this was common when someone wanted to put a "fooler" over—repeal many sections and "put in a bunch of sleepers."

Then, Blackwell said, "in a couple of years we wake up and see we've been fooled." Sen. Edward T. Linehan, D-St. Louis, said he was angry because the bill was "sold" to him under false pretenses.

One change the bill would make is to disallow Social Security and Railroad Retirement deductions.

It would also allow a standard 10 per cent deduction up to $1,000 as the federal law does.

The bill was 68 pages long. The committee also considered testimony on Blackwell's to increase state revenue by hiking taxes on beer, wine, liquor, cigarettes, insurance companies and the corporate franchise tax.

Compared to hearings of the committee last week when members accused witnesses of being "freeloaders," testimony was quiet.

There was much opposition though.

Representatives of the brewing industry, insurance firms and tax attorneys spoke against the bills.

Blackwell, with Sen. A. Baise Vanlandingham, D-Columbia, Senate floor leader, offered the package plan to increase state revenue the first year by $110 million.

They said earlier the lack of leadership on the part of the governor prompted them to offer the specific proposals.

Both senators said they felt Gov. Warren E. Hearnes had offered no definite or positive plan and they feared the legislative session could result in utter confusion unless some concerted direction was given toward revenue measures.

They expected opposition but said they felt their plan constituted the "lesser of many evils" in raising new revenue.

The bills would increase tax on beer by 93 cents a gallon, 20 cents a gallon on wine and $1.50 a gallon on liquor.

Execute Suspected Spies in Damascus

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Iraq executed seven young men today as spies for Israel, then put their bodies on display. There were no Jews among them.

Israel was expected to issue a denial of any complicity, but it seemed unlikely there would be another storm of foreign protests such as followed the execution and public display last month of nine Iraqi Jews and five other Iraqis as spies for the Jewish nation.

Baghdad Radio canceled regular programs this morning and broadcast repeated announcements of the executions in what appeared to be an invitation to crowds to go to the capital's liberation square.

The seven Iraqi Moslems, all between 19 and 24 years of age, were condemned after a three-week trial before Iraq's revolutionary court. The government radio said two were soldiers, and they were shot by firing squads, while five civilians were hanged at Baghdad's central prison.

A third soldier also was sentenced to death, the broadcast said, but his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment

Post Office Closing Date Is Announced

Since Saturday, Feb. 22 is a legal holiday, the post office service lobby will be closed. Postmaster Maurice Hogan said today.

There will be no delivery of mail either in the city or on rural routes. Special delivery will be made, and the holiday collection schedule posted on street letter collection boxes will be maintained. Lock box patrons may pick up mail too large for boxes at the dutch door in the self-service lobby from 7:30 to 8:30 a.m. Regular services will be provided on Friday.

Carmel, speaking to Israel's Parliament Wednesday, cited the publication in Beirut of a statement by the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine claiming responsibility for the Zurich attack.

After another Popular Front attack on an El Al airliner in Athens last December, Israel retaliated within 48 hours with a commando raid on the Beirut airport that destroyed 13 planes of Lebanon's Middle East Airlines. This time the Israelis appeared to be riding the wave of international criticism of the Arab guerrillas and pressing for international action.

US Insists There Are Grounds For Peace

PARIS (AP) — The United States insisted today that common ground exists at the Vietnam peace talks to bring the conflict to an end, but the atmosphere of deadlock deepened as Hanoi and the National Liberation Front stuck by their all-or-nothing demands.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge told the North Vietnamese and the NLF that the 1954 Geneva accords provide the common ground, and that it was in the spirit of the basic principles of those accords that the Americans had made their proposals for a military de-escalation.

Lodge claimed the other side recognized last week that the solution of military issues is "an absolutely essential first step" for the creation of conditions in which political problems can be resolved. He recalled that the Hanoi-front side had called the withdrawal of troops a "fundamental question."

"Thus," he said, "your side and our side seem to agree that military issues and particularly the question of withdrawal of military forces are of key importance to an over-all settlement."

This session of the talks lasted 5 hours and 25 minutes, the shortest of all plenary sessions to date by about 45 minutes.

The NLF and North Vietnam restated in tough terms a demand that the United States "completely and unconditionally" withdraw troops "and those of its satellites" from South Vietnam.

Tran Buu Kiem, chief of the National Liberation Front delegation, declared that the United States "must end its war of aggression, unconditionally withdraw all their troops and those of their satellites," and permit a South Vietnamese settlement "according to the political program" of the NLF.

Only this way, he said, can Vietnamese problems be settled "correctly."

There was nothing new in Kiem's statement except an escalation in name-calling. The NLF delegate compared the United States unfavorably with the former Fascist regimes of Germany, Italy and Japan, and again heaped scorn on the "puppet Saigon administration."

Kiem said the NLF would never stop fighting as long as the Americans continue "aggression" and the Saigon regime continues as a "lackey" of the United States. Again he spurned "so-called concrete proposals" by the United States to make military de-escalation as a primary order of conference business.

U.S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge planned to challenge the

Symphony Presents Concert

The Sedalia Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Abe Rosenthal, gave its second concert of the season at Smith Cotton Auditorium Monday evening.

The program was opened with Michael Ivanovich Glinka's Russian and Ludmilla Overture, a spirited, light and refreshing orchestration. Although the overture remains in one tempo, monotony is overcome by the marvelous effect of the contrast, which gives the work an unsurpassed vitality.

Mimi Allen, internationally famous harpist was guest artist. She studied and toured with Carlos Salzedo, considered the greatest harpist in the world. She is rated third at the present time. Miss Allen began with four numbers composed by Salzedo: Fraichur, Chanson dans la Nuit (Sounds in the Night), Tango and Whirlwind.

The artist's second group consisted of selections from Porgy and Bess by George Gershwin, including "Summertime," "It Ain't Necessarily So," "Bess, You Is My Woman Now," and "I Got Plenty of Nuttin'." Miss Allen, who has made extensive studies of Gershwin's music in order to arrange it for the harp, stated that Gershwin "is synonymous with Americana." The Gershwin selections were concluded with his Prelude II.

Miss Allen was recalled by an appreciative audience for two encores, "The Bumblebee" and "Jamaican Rumba."

Other selections performed by the orchestra were Capriccio — Third Movement from Antonin Vivaldi's Violin Concerto Op. 3; Scene De Ballet from Swan Lake by Tchaikovsky; March and Procession of Bacchus by Delibes and Excerpts from Finian's Rainbow by Burton Lane.

The next concert will be April 21 when the Choraleers from the University of Missouri at Kansas City will be guests of the Symphony. The group has recently returned from an extensive European tour.

To Discuss New Bill

A committee hearing on House Bill 437, pertaining to the reorganization of the system of public schools in Missouri, will be held at 8 p.m. Monday, Feb. 24, in the House Chambers of the State Capitol building in Jefferson City, according to Pettis County Representative Joe Rains.

VC Can Count on More Men for New Offensive

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. military advisers said today the Viet Cong have more forces now for an attack on Saigon and the provinces around it than they had for the big tet offensive a year ago.

The American officers conceded they were uncertain when, where or if the Communist command would launch its long anticipated big push. But they said captured documents and prisoners of war still point to an offensive in the 3rd Corps Area, which is made up of Saigon and 11 provinces around it.

Assessing the current military situation around the capital, the analysts said either the enemy has not been able to get his troops, munitions and food supplies into position because of U.S. and South Vietnamese spoiling actions, or he is awaiting advice from Hanoi's diplorats at the Paris peace talks.

"The enemy's over-all strength in 3rd Corps has increased about 7,500 over the last 13 months to 65,000," said one source. About 20,000 to 30,000 of these are considered assault troops, the rest support forces. The total includes several thousand operating from bases just across the border in Cambodia who move in and out of South Vietnam at will.

Dorothy Hopkins Named To State Arts Council

Mrs. Dorothy Hopkins, 1610 West 13th, was one of three new women members appointed to the State Council on the Arts by

Mrs. Dorothy Hopkins

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes today. They will replace members whose terms have expired.

Mrs. Hopkins said she has always been interested in the arts. The call from the Governor's office asking if she would accept, came as a surprise, she said. "Of course, I was thrilled to death," Mrs. Hopkins said, "and I am very flattered."

Mrs. Hopkins is a portrait artist and professional play reviewer. She is president of the Sedalia Council on the Arts and has worked in the past with members of the State Council. She also served on the Commission on the Status of Women for three years, also by appointment of the governor.

"Missouri is the second state in the nation to have an arts council," Mrs. Hopkins said, "and Sedalia is about 68th on the list of cities having councils. We are really on the ground floor," she said.

Mrs. Hopkins will succeed D. Patricia McIlrath, Kansas City. The other two appointees are Mrs. Frank Miller, Hannibal, to replace Mrs. Edmund Krautman, Chillicothe; and Mrs. C. L. Godwin, Dexter, to replace Mrs. David Eads, Columbia.

Pettis County Poverty Program Awaits a Vote

The area board of Missouri Valley Human Resources Development Corporation in Carrollton will vote Feb. 27, on whether to accept Pettis County into the anti-poverty organization.

The Pettis County Community Action board had requested a merger with the five-county agency to the north following Pettis County's withdrawal from Mid-Missouri Community Action Corp.

Chance Blaeuer, Carrollton, executive director of Missouri Valley, and Charles Thomas, Marshall, manpower director, were in Sedalia Wednesday to talk with local officials regarding the possible merger.

The vote will be taken by the 30-member area board of the Missouri Valley agency, representing six members from each county — Saline, Ray, Chariton, Carroll and Lafayette. Pettis County contributed only three members to the area board of Mid-Missouri Community Action Corp., thus three more Pettis County representatives would have to be elected should Missouri Valley accept the county. Dennis Onwiler is president of the Pettis County board.

If the vote is affirmative, Pettis County will join an agency with more than twice the operating budget of MMCAC. Blaeuer placed the total budget at about $518,000, compared to about $260,000 for MMCAC the last program year.

Pettis County's share of the last MMCAC budget was about $42,000, according to Hardy Cobb, MMCAC director, thus roughly, this amount could be expected to be transferred to the new agency boosting its total budget to about $560,000 providing no programs are cut by the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Pettis County would make Missouri Valley a six-county

Description of War

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — "War is all the horrible things a human being can do to another human being because he has not learned to love..."

These were the words of Air Force Maj. Victor Colasuonno in answer to a query from the fourth grade class at Church of the Magdalen Catholic School here, of which his son, Kenneth, is a member.

Major Colasuonno, a pilot, was killed in action last week in Vietnam where he had been assigned since June. Services were held here Wednesday. While in Vietnam he had written regularly to the school where his three sons, Kenneth, Bobby and Stephen, and daughter Patty attend. Colasuonno was stationed at McConnell Air Force Base here before going to Vietnam.

Some of the fourth grade boys had written at Christmas time and had asked, "What war is?" His answer, read to the entire school after his death:

"I'll tell you what war is not," the major wrote. "It is not a glamorous, daredevil existence where the 'good guys' always win."

"It is not a fearless fighter pilot jumping into his airplane to shoot down the enemy."

"It is not a game which you play (and which I played as a child), where you go home to a good supper and a warm bed after it is over."

"War is fought by real human beings, not Hollywood stars—men like your daddy and perhaps older brothers."

"We all face a moment of truth when we must overcome our fears and do what must be done, no matter how difficult."

"Do not allow adults to teach you to hate—for no reason and against no man."

Hold Back Reprisal Demands

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israel's hawks today held in abeyance their demands for retaliation for the latest Arab attack on an Israeli airliner. They awaited the outcome of calls from their government and that of the United States for international action to protect civil aviation.

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, one of the more militant members of the Israeli cabinet, told a closed meeting at the Weizman Institute of Science Wednesday night that Israelis must be restrained and let the diplomats fight their battles for the moment. But reliable sources said he warned Israel's Arab neighbors:

"We regard all our neighboring states as responsible for all terrorist activities. When we make reprisals, we will hit them in the place that will hurt them the most and will be the most convenient for us. We will not be bound to any particular target."

Dayan had just come from a top-secret ministerial security meeting at the home of Premier Levi Eshkol.

"We'll let the Arabs stew for a while," said one lead Israeli commentator. "All their governments are certain of a big Israeli reprisal, are scurrying around frantically to accuse each other of complicity and thus escape the consequences themselves." Lebanon denied any part in the Arab commando attack.

"From the information announced about the operation," Lebanese Premier Rashid Karami said, "there can be no excuse to deduce that any responsibility for it falls on us."

Karami's statement was issued after Israeli Transport Minister Moshe Carmel charged that Lebanon was responsible for the attack Tuesday on an El Al airliner in Zurich in which six persons on the plane were wounded and one guerrilla was killed.

Prepare to Boost Fair

Six months from now the Missouri State Fair will be in progress. It is not too soon for Sedalians to start planning cooperation with this ten-day event which means so much to the community.

From a promotional standpoint enthusiasm has been lagging in the area of participation. Maybe we need a brass band to enliven us similar to what happened at Kiwanis pancake day at Sacred Heart cafeteria last Saturday. While a record player droned sober tunes there was noticeable evidence the table-hoppers and cleanup squads were dragging their feet. Then someone put on a Tijuana brass platter and the Kiwanian work details started jumping around like grasshoppers. The kitchen detail began flapping cakes with more alacrity and even the customers ate faster.

Like we said, Sedalia needs something like hot music to stir up renewed interest in the State Fair.

Last fall we mentioned that Sedalia is proud of the Missouri State Fair and is truly concerned with its continuing success. As a part of its appreciation, the entire community should extend to thousands of visitors good old-fashioned Missouri hospitality.

Peruvian Showdown Nears Crisis

DREW PEARSON and JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Ambassador to Peru, J. Wesley Jones, who has been cooling his heels in Washington for over a week trying to warn the Nixon administration of a dangerous showdown in Peru, finally got in to see President Nixon and Secretary of State William P. Rogers last week. But he got in solely because a Peruvian gunboat seized one and fired on a second American fishing boat.

The overall Peruvian crisis, however, is much more important than a gunboat incident. The new President inherited these problems, but they are embarrassing to him, first because he was nearly killed during a Venezuelan riot in 1958 yet is personally hopeful of improving Pan American relations; second, because he is leaving in less than a week for another part of the world — Europe.

Here are the latest developments:

1. U.S. Ambassador Sol Linowitz, the ablest envoy to represent this country at the OAS, is leaving next month. He offered to remain to help out in the crisis but his offer was ignored.

2. At this writing the White House still has not found an assistant secretary of state for Latin American affairs. Other top jobs at the State Department have been filled, but this crucial post remains vacant.

Brazil, another military dictatorship has called a conference of Latin American states — excluding the United States — to be held in Chile in April to line up a common front against alleged North American economic aggression.

Reasons for the conference are not spelled out this bluntly. But the real fact is that the two military dictatorships of Peru and Brazil are working together to put the United States in the role of the domineering colossus of the North. The Brazilian-inspired conference would take place immediately after April 9, the deadline when the Hickenlooper amendment goes into effect six months after Peruvian seizure of the International Petroleum Company, owned by Standard Oil of New Jersey.

— Eleven Billion at Stake —

Under the Hickenlooper amendment — introduced by the former GOP Senator from Nebraska — any country which seizes American property loses all U.S. aid and its U.S. sugar quota. The latter is extremely valuable to Peru, amounting to seven cents a pound against a world price of two cents, or about $59 million a year. Aid totaled $37 million last year.

4. At stake at the anti-American economic conference called by Brazil will be half a billion dollars of American investments in Peru plus a total of $11 billion investments in all of Latin America. Any concerted anti-American drive, such as planned by the two military dictatorships, could seriously jeopardize them.

5. Peru has rushed to resume diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union after a diplomatic freeze of 50 years, and a Soviet trade mission hastily arrived in Lima last week and signed an agreement for Russian aid.

Ironically, it was the Peruvian military who in the past have broken up democratically-elected governments on the excuse that they might lead Peru down the path to communism. This also has been the excuse used by the U.S. Defense Department for sending destroyers and arms, and selling submarines to Peru.

As former Sen. Frank Lausche, D-Ohio, once put it: "They may be militarists but they're against communism."

Based on this assumption, the United States

Looking Backward

EIGHTY-THREE YEARS AGO

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Sedalia Business and Professional Women's club met in Bothwell Hotel with Miss Susan Hurlbut presiding, and elected the following officers: President, Miss Carol Huff; First Vice-President, Miss Cecil Tibberty; Second Vice-President, Miss Maurine Hieronymous; Secretary, Miss Juanita Young; Treasurer, Miss Nellie Robb; Parliamentarian, Mrs. J. G. Banks; Historian, Miss Harriet Miller; Auditor, Miss Anna Marie Morseman; Sergeant-at-arms, Miss Rosemary Burrows; Directors, Miss Hurlbut and Besse Brinton.

That brought forth a critical comment by an objective observer who protested that Sedalia certainly hadn't gone all out last August. For instance, a newcomer could easily miss State Fair boulevard at the intersection of Highway 50. Are banners across the thoroughfare banned by the highway department?

More welcome signs and more directional signs would make a better impression on visitors.

What happened to the State Fair banners in the downtown area? How about other decorations in support of this important exposition? These are among the questions asked in consideration of a positive, organized approach to promoting the fair, the planning of which should not be deferred until the eve of the event.

As one critic put it: "It almost seems as if Sedalia is interested only in the financial income from State Fair visitors and doesn't offer adequate promotional atmosphere to back it up."

This sounds like repetitious needling but does invite changing the needle and putting on a new record with livelier music to stimulate more enthusiasm among Sedalians in support of the Missouri State Fair.

government has either played footsie or deliberately aided dictatorship after dictatorship in Peru at the same time that the Peruvian military were sabotaging U.S. policy.

— Using U.S. Tanks —

Dating back to the Truman administration in 1948, Gen. Manuel Odría forced out duly elected President Luis Bustamante and became dictator, following which the United States continued to send Peru arms. Among other things, it let Peru buy submarines from General Dynamics, as a result of which Peru now has one of the biggest undersea fleets in South America. It also gave Peru old American gunboats and destroyers; and some Navy men suspected that it was probably a former U.S. gunboat that fired on the American fishing vessels last week.

— 1962, the Peruvian military, using Sherman tanks and commanded by officers trained at Ft. Leavenworth, crashed the Presidential Palace of President Prado and took over. President Kennedy at first broke off diplomatic relations and cut off $22 million in housing aid and the unspent balance of $53 million for Agrarian reform.

Later in 1962, Ambassador James Loeb, who demanded the cut-off, was transferred, the dictatorship was recognized and aid resumed.

But a few weeks later, when the United States faced a showdown with Russia over missiles in Cuba, Peru was one of the few Latin countries which refused US its support. Subsequently, the Peruvian military refused to back our boycott of Fidel Castro, opposed an inter-American peace-keeping force which we proposed for the Dominican Republic, and voted for Red China's admission into the U.N.

And when President Fernando Belaunde negotiated a fair take-over of Standard Oil's Peruvian property, to be paid for in long-term installments, the military kicked out Belaunde and trumped up the phony charge that Standard Oil owed Peru $974 million.

Lessening the Postal Limp

By removing the appointment of local postmasters from the area of political patronage, and incidentally ending 190 years of tradition, President Nixon has taken a first, small step toward the re-vamping of the entire structure of the postal service.

The president's authority is limited, however. It is Congress that must eventually decide whether the outmoded, overburdened system is to continue limping along from deficit to deficit or whether an entirely new concept is in order.

A presidential commission months ago recommended sweeping changes in the postal service, chiefly making it a non-profit government corporation entirely divorced from politics. Congress should take the cue the new president has given them and at least begin debating the merits of the proposal.

COBURG (Ontario) SENTINEL STAR: For a Better World. — Freedom cannot be bestowed — it must be achieved. To get freedom one must shoulder responsibility.

In the world of employment, man's chief endeavors these days seem to be bent toward emancipation from work. Man is looking for leisure and security; he is unionized in his aspirations and collectively bargaining for something — for himself.

Thus a new religion, or belief, has been born as a part of the sixties — the new bonanza ready for popular vote is guaranteed income and political freedom from want and any responsibility.

Many mortals have set as their goal the "rainbow" of idleness, as a cure-all for all the attendant ills of the cosmos. Such desire is doomed to failure because above everything else, it is born of self. Until a man is freed of selfish desire, each part of personal freedom he wishes to achieve becomes only another form of slavery.

The crying need in the world today is for workers, desirous of contributing to, rather than taking away from the world. The more a man accepts selfishly for himself, the poorer a family and community he builds about him.

To progress is to broaden oneself in an outward men — a better world is seldom achieved in any other way.

"Why Don't You Get Rid of That Tramp?"

Talk-Big, Do-Nothing Act Ruled Out by Nixon Aides

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)

Some influential men around President Nixon believe that he has taken office at a crucial moment in American history and may stand or fall on his developing attempt to build wholly new approaches to effective governing.

The eight Eisenhower years have led many people, including a considerable covey of historians and social scientists, to expect from any Republican administration a slowing down, a caretaker atmosphere, a tendency simply toward consolidation and cleanup of programs loosely drawn and swiftly adopted by Democratic predecessors.

Conceivably, Richard Nixon could try to copy that pattern if he chose, since he did not promise the "motion" proposed by the late John F. Kennedy and is held to very few specific commitments.

But the early evidence from inside the White House suggests that the new President does not see himself as mere conservator and consolidator. With the encouragement of his more imaginative aides, he is thinking of his task in new and quite different terms.

The key word in those very special premises today is "effective."

It is the considered view of the President's guiding inner circle that the American people are not merely briefly tired of the flurry of noise and movement which accompany big Democratic programs but are almost totally disillusioned as to their usefulness.

Indeed, many Democratic figures themselves are virtually at this point, and it may not be too rash a forecast to suggest that the day of great, sweeping federal programs — at least as formerly conceived — is nearly over.

Especially in the fields of housing, schools and jobs, the growing view of government is that of the Great Over-Promiser which talks big and delivers little or nothing in the end.

Writers like Peter F. Drucker are coming along now to underscore this notion of government as a social mechanism that really does not work very well.

The danger perceived, inside the White House today as well as outside, is not just the old thing about government being too big and therefore more reliance on the private sector being necessary.

No one in the top Nixon entourage really imagines that the federal government is going to be reduced in size. Its bigness in a big and growing country is accepted as inescapable.

The task is to make the bigness work, and, critically, to persuade the American people that federal actions—and the lesser actions of state and local governments—really end up getting things done which affect people who have problems they need to have solved.

Right now the peril is mounting steadily. As one Nixon aide looks at the matter:

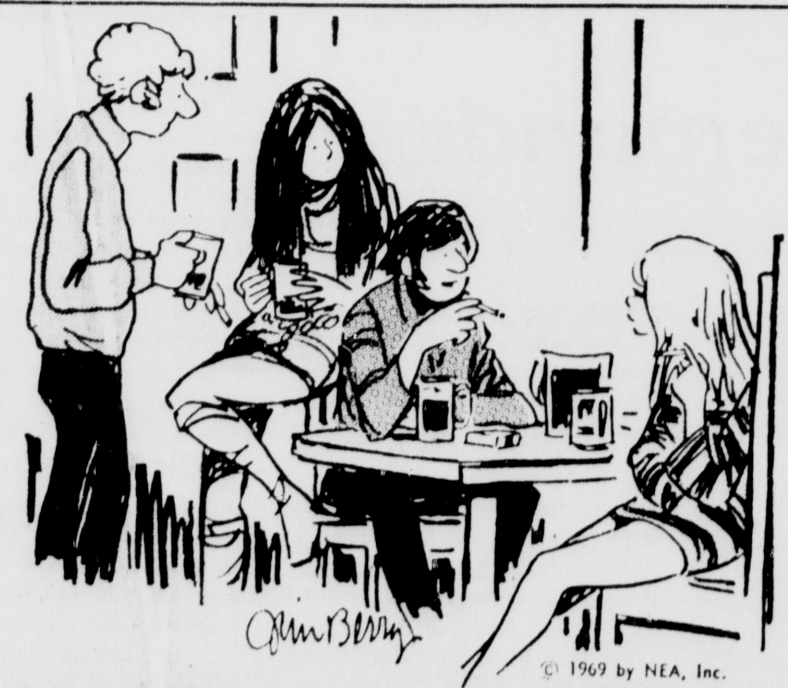

"If government cannot soon begin to show that it can deliver on its promises, or that its motion has real consequences for the people, then democracy will seem to have a hollow center and will find itself in the most serious difficulties."

Republicans may be predisposed to look to the private sector for help, and it is certainly plain enough that the Nixon administration would like to rely heavily on its co-operative assistance in solving the great urban dilemmas linked to jobs, schools and housing.

But it would be misleading to imagine that the Nixon men are not also very much on the prowl for a whole host of new inventions which can make government itself work more effectively.

Conversations with many of the insiders reveal no glib, cocky nonsense about how easy it will all be now that the efficient Republicans are back in the saddle.

Impressions are quite the reverse: They feel they have to break important new ground in government; they seem humble before the task, they expect to be judged quickly and harshly by millions of troubled Americans if they fail to deliver.

"Sometimes I think we should not only de-Americanize the war—we should de-South-Vietnamize the Peace Talks!"

Disquieting Assumption

By Navy on the Pueblo

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)

A disturbing aspect of the Pueblo case is one statement, several times repeated: All concerned had assumed the Pueblo would not be attacked — because no U.S. Navy ship had been taken in peacetime on the high seas in 150 years.

This was the justification given. It "explained" the Pueblo's insufficient armament, the lack of air and naval support, the inadequate security provided for top secret documents and equipment.

There are two reasons why this way of thinking is disquieting:

— We are still at war with North Korea. No treaty ending the Korean war has ever been signed. We have an armistice; that is all. Therefore, peacetime assumptions do not hold. This does not make the actions of the Communist North Korean government any the less reprehensible. But the repeated violations of the armistice on land should most certainly have led Navy men to a degree of caution at sea.

— The unexpected is "routine" in military attacks.

The Japanese won at Singapore rather handily; the guns defending that strategic city were pointed seaward. No one had ever attacked by land down the Malay peninsula. It was assumed no one ever would.

Last year, many South Vietnamese officers believed the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese invaders would keep their pledge not to violate a Tet truce. This made possible Hanoi's greater-than-expected destruction at Tet in 1968. It was because of the resilience of South Vietnamese and American troops that the Communist Tet attack failed (like the Battle of the Bulge in World War II) except in its strong propaganda effect in the United States.

Pear Harbor was a disaster because no one expected Tojo's men to attack that base, especially on a Sunday morning before a declaration of war was received.

Late in 1952 there had been a flood of intelligence reports on major Communist Chinese troop movements and Manchurian border crossings. Yet U.S. generals were caught unprepared in Korea when the Communist Chinese moved in. They could not believe Peking would dare enter the war.

It is now calculated that military preparations for the Russian invasion of Czechoslovakia required at least six months. Our highly efficient spy satellites made it possible to detect certain aspects of those preparations in their early stages. Nevertheless, the attack came as a surprise.

The surprise resulted from a Western assumption; the Russians would make no such move. Data pointing to an invasion were ignored — or explained away.

The above leads one to wonder. What possibly disastrous assumptions are being made today as to what an enemy might or might not do in the future.

Separation Powers

From Our Washington Bureau

Senator Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) spoke recently on the debate which will soon come up in the Senate concerning Senate Resolution 187, which deals with the separation of powers in the government. The Senator said: "The health of our nation depends on restoring full meaning of the doctrine of separation of powers. The Executive branch of our government has no mandate, or will, to accomplish this task. Only Congress can try to restore the balance."

"Senate Resolution 187 cannot alone provide a remedy; but it can and will provide the opportunity to correct that lack of sober reassessment of our national position which could threaten to engage us in dangerous situations in the future. I say this because the Resolution concentrates attention upon the one function in the overall sphere of foreign policy most clearly assigned to the Congress by the Constitution — namely, the authority of the Congress to initiate war. Senate Resolution 187 is a vehicle for reaffirming the right of the American people to express their views through the voices of all, rather than only one of their elected representatives. Yet it does nothing to reduce the primacy of influence given our President under the Constitution."

The Senator does not believe that the passing of this resolution would cause the United States to withdraw into an isolated position from the rest of the world. He cited the serious concern of the American people over the Vietnam war and the thousands of young men who have died there, and yet that conflict has never been a declared war by the Congress.

The Senator is convinced that "The debate on Resolution 187 will be in the best historical traditions of the United States, and will also renew the faith of the people in the basic soundness of our system of government."

Democrat Pickups

Ricky is ten and Cindy is nine and just before Valentine's Day their father went to the garage and found that their bicycles had been stolen. His wife had gone some place that day and was not at home when he returned during the noon hour and found the bicycles missing. The children were not supposed to ride them to school, but he thought they just might have, so he went up to the school to see.

When Cindy learned that her bicycle was gone she cried. Ricky didn't cry because he thought he was too big a boy to cry, but he felt like it.

"It sure won't be a happy Valentine's Day," sobbed Cindy the night before.

The father reported the loss to the police, and not on their first rounds, nor the second, but in the wee hours of the morning, the police found the two bicycles, not damaged at all, lying beside the Dairy Queen building.

Neither child had slept much that night but early the next morning the police came with the good news that the bicycles had been found. So, it turned out to be a good Valentine's Day after all. Of all the nice Valentines they received, the very nicest was getting their bicycles back. H.L.

It's the Man Who Pays

The volume of long distance telephone calls made on Father's Day is growing faster than that of Mother's Day, Illinois Bell's traffic department noted recently.

Then they apologized for the delay in compiling the statistics. It was due to the extra billing involved, they explained.

Most of the calls to dad were "collect."

We can't give full approval to South's three no-trump call. Somehow or other, when we pick up two good four-card major suits, we like to bid at least one of them at some stage of the bidding but the final contract was normal.

South ducked the club lead on general principles. Sometimes your opponents shift to something you like better, but West continued with the jack. South was on lead and promptly played his nine of diamonds. West covered with the jack and South played low from dummy. Since diamonds broke 3-2, South wound up with an overtrick at his game contract.

"Horseshoes," mumbled West. "If you had gone after hearts as you should have, you would have gone down. Suppose diamonds hadn't broken nicely for you?"

"I might still have made the hand," replied South. "I would have led a high diamond after getting in with my last good club and discarded a heart on dummy's second high diamond. Then I would have tried the spade finesse. If East had started with either the singleton or doubleton spade to the king, I would have still made my contract. My play had to be the best percentage."

South was right. The alternate line of play would be to win the first diamond and take the spade finesse. This would produce nine tricks any time East held the king of spades, or if spades broke 3-3. This represented a 68 per cent chance.

By a coincidence, the chance that a suit will break 3-2 is also 68 per cent. But the diamond play allowed the additional chance that one spade lead from dummy might produce three spade tricks. That isn't much of a chance but it is better than nothing and the winning bridge play should always give the player the best chance. He won't always be right, but he will be right often enough to win.

Israel's militant elements have held off in demands for retaliation, however, as they awaited the outcome of calls from their government and the United States for international action to protect civil aviation.

In a message, Israeli foreign Minister Abba Eban asked U.N. Secretary-General U. Thant Thursday to spell out his recent call for "constructive international action" to prevent repetitions of the Zurich attack.

Eban said that as recently as Feb. 1 a conference of Arab saboteurs was held in Cairo and received official blessings from Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

"The central truth which the international community must face is that responsibility does not fall exclusively on the individuals who carried out the assault," he added. "They are members of known organizations which operate on and from the soil of U.N. member states with the approval, encouragement and practical support of their governments."

Madge Blake Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Madge Blake wanted to become an actress but waited until she was a grandmother because of objections voiced by her father, a Methodist circuit rider in Kansas.

So that was her role—as the matronly mother, grandmother or aunt—in numerous movie and television appearances since breaking into pictures as Spencer Tracy's mother in "Adam's Rib" in 1948.

County

Pettis County would make Missouri Valley a six-county area however, as compared to the four-county MMCA, representing a total population of 118,184, compared to 82,314, respectively.

The bulk of the Missouri Valley budget — $292,000 — goes to support a year-round Head Start and day care program. Pettis County, by contrast, has had only summer Head Start programs funded by the federal government.

If, for some reason, Missouri Valley should turn Pettis County down, then there would be no federal anti-poverty funds available from any source for the county.

Mid-Missouri personnel, meanwhile, are continuing to make plans for an interim move to Lincoln, where the now three-county agency will operate until an intended merger with the anti-poverty agency in Appleton City is effected.
